

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Spammer.TV AKA TwitchHelper AKA Rus3000es AKA xna81425 - Exit Scammer

The Sanity - October 7, 2018, 7:38 pm

Hello everyone,

This thread is to warn the community about the return of an exit scammer who has exit scammed 3 times on the forums now, all recently this year. Most of you are probably familiar with the user by now known as xna81425, Rus3000es, and TwitchHelper, and most recently, BorisGangsta.

With the creation of my previous thread (please read it for all the proofs of those users above being the same person), I predicted that TwitchHelper would quickly exit scam after my thread because it exposed him for who he was. Unfortunately I was 100% correct in my prediction and he immediately exit scammed the very same day, and shortly after was banned and closed and took down his product and website. I also predicted that he would probably be back after he exit scams and unfortunately I was correct yet again.

My previous thread has all those details you need to know:

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5885774>

This thread is to inform everyone that xna81425/Rus3000es/TwitchHelper is back with another product, SpammerTV.

To begin, we need to go back a few accounts to his first one, xna81425. You may be surprised to learn that the very first Twitch product xna81425 actually sold here on HF was....a channel spammer. That's right, a Twitch Spammer was his very first product that he exit scammed with at the same time that he scammed someone else for \$400.00 for a fake bot source code.

Already it seems quite obvious what is going on here, but let's dig in a bit deeper and see what else there is to find.

What is the one of the most identifiable patterns that we see with xna and all his multi-accounts each time he returns? Specifically regarding threads he creates to gain attention/views...that's right, he starts to giveaway Twitch followers. Now, at first, you may be thinking...wait a minute, BorisGangsta didn't create any threads trying to gain attention/reputation for Twitch related products, in fact he's not even selling the SpammerTV product, the user Stratify is. That is correct, and that's why we can easily find this thread created by Stratify giving away 100 free Twitch followers, and who is the first poster? None other than our old friend BorisGangsta.

Now lets check out BorisGangsta's post history a bit as there's quite an obvious story in it.

Here is his very first post...interesting that he is a brand new account registered on September 25th and his very first post is on this Twitch thread. The more interesting point is how he asks if he can use "public proxies" for this product...now, for anyone familiar with the nature of this product, it's very obvious that you can use any sort of proxy, but let's put that aside and look at his other posts.

Quite an interesting set of posts here. Nearly all of them are like his original post, they are non-sense obvious bump posts...

"Had a quick problem, fixed quickly, thanks."

"When is the new update coming?"

"damn new thread looking good gj" (honestly had a good laugh at this one LOL)

"Program update looking good so far"

And suddenly on October 4th, he posts "I am officially part of the support team, contact me for any questions!".

Really? A brand new fresh account who didn't even know if you could use public proxies on a Twitch Spammer 1 week ago is now on the support team for this product? How interesting...

The more you look at all this the more it makes sense as to why he was the first post on the giveaway thread by Stratify and why he's posting so many things on the thread. In fact, here's an even more interesting post by him on the SpammerTV thread, let's see if we can make any sense of it:

The post in question:

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5887107&pid=57654848#pid57654848>

Okay, can anyone make sense of this? This is on September 29th, 4 days after BorisGangsta registered on HackForums and 4 days after his post asking about using public proxies on the software. So it seems that a user posted on Stratify's thread saying that he PM'd STRATIFY about his purchase and how he hasn't gotten a reply, asking to be replied to. And who replies instead? BorisGangsta! And the interesting part is that in the user's post he did not state what his issue was at all, but it's clear that Boris knows what the problem was because Stratify is infact proxy-selling for whoever is behind the BorisGangsta account which I believe is xna/rus3000es/TwitchHelper/etc, and he forwarded the question to Boris/TwitchHelper.

The user RealJohnSample was obviously asking about something along the lines of either a registration email not showing up in his inbox or having trouble with something else related to emails, and without any indication of that in his post, BorisGangsta replies that his registration email was in his "Spam Folder" therefore implying John should check his spam folder to resolve the issue. From this moment it was clear that Boris is not just a user, but rather he is either the developer or someone on the team of this software. This is way before he posted "I am now on the support team". It's 6 days before, there is no reason he should be customer questions that were sent in a PM to Stratify unless Stratify forwards those questions to him for an answer and instead of having Stratify reply, he decided to post it on the thread instead, which was his first mistake.

Now the final nail in the coffin, in case all of the above wasn't enough for those reading, let's take a look at when SpammerTV actually was created....and keep in mind, this is under the notion that this product is coming back right after TwitchHelper would exit scam, as I predicted, which happened on the same day I posted my thread. Now let's compare the timing of these events.

My thread creation date: 09-17-2018, 11:02 AM

Need I say more?

Sickness - October 7, 2018, 11:56 pm

This guy cant stop scamming people. His only way to earn money. People dont fall on this flat shit and becareful.

luke - October 8, 2018, 2:07 am

Hm. I'll look into this, if you actually read into my sales thread, this is a proxy sale for a user. I do not own nor manage the software/website.

Do your research before accusing me of shit. This is a PROXY SALE for another user. It's always been stated as that, my thread is simply for sales and I reply to support occasionally.

I believe Boris is a friend of the developer, who, I'm pretty sure, isn't the "rus" guy. Anyways, I'll ask about it and will probably stop the proxy sales due to this.

RBH - October 8, 2018, 2:11 am

(Oct 8, 2018 02:07 AM)Stratify Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Hm. I'll look into this, if you actually read into my sales thread, this is a proxy sale for a user. I do not own nor manage the software/website.

Do your research before accusing me of shit. This is a PROXY SALE for another user. It's always been stated as that, my thread is simply for sales and I reply to support occasionally.
I don't think he is accusing you directly.

luke - October 8, 2018, 2:13 am

(Oct 8, 2018 02:11 AM)RBH Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I don't think he is accusing you directly.
"but it's clear that Boris knows what the problem was because Stratify is infact proxy-selling for whoever is behind the BorisGangsta account which I believe is xna/rus3000es/TwitchHelper/etc"

Acting like I'm hiding shit (and he gets the person I'm proxying for wrong). Anyways, I'm late for school. I'll check this thread again later.

edit:

This is stupid evidence. The whole community alert is built around when a domain was registered?

You gave a bunch of links on this "xna" guy but the only thing that links him and the developer is the idea of a Twitch spammer? Then you go and witchhunt a guy (BorisGangsta) who I can tell you, for a fact, is not even the developer, just a friend of the developer whom is now apart of his support team. The developer is linked in the thread for fuck sakes.

"Stratify is infact proxy-selling for whoever is behind the BorisGangsta account which I believe is xna/rus3000es/TwitchHelper/etc"

- "believe" is a strong word, and not one that is meant to be used on a community alert.

Even if you looked at the products, the one that was "xna"'s is a web-based twitch spammer. Not even remotely anything like the one that is sold by us.

I'm guessing you were the one who was scammed by the people you have mentioned, or you just want to flex your e-peen by "discovering" scammers, however, please provide solid evidence rather than going on a tyrant about random shit.

<https://i.gyazo.com/8482eee2fe2acf6d9b5c35a931769a62.mp4>

From the looks of your posts, it's clear you're just shitting on anyone with a Twitch service from what I see.

Give me solid evidence and I will delete the proxy sale thread.

BorisGangsta - October 8, 2018, 8:21 am

I'm a friend of the developer and he put me on the support team not long ago. I don't even have any affiliation with "xna"

The Sanity - October 8, 2018, 9:21 am

(Oct 8, 2018 02:13 AM)Stratify Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) "but it's clear that Boris knows what the problem was because Stratify is infact proxy-selling for whoever is behind the BorisGangsta account which I believe is xna/rus3000es/TwitchHelper/etc"

Acting like I'm hiding shit (and he gets the person I'm proxying for wrong). Anyways, I'm late for school. I'll check this thread again later.

edit:

This is stupid evidence. The whole community alert is built around when a domain was registered?

You gave a bunch of links on this "xna" guy but the only thing that links him and the developer is the idea of a Twitch spammer? Then you go and witchhunt a guy (BorisGangsta) who I can tell you, for a fact, is not even the developer, just a friend of the developer whom is now apart of his support team. The developer is linked in the thread for fuck sakes.

"Stratify is infact proxy-selling for whoever is behind the BorisGangsta account which I believe is xna/rus3000es/TwitchHelper/etc"

- "believe" is a strong word, and not one that is meant to be used on a community alert.

Even if you looked at the products, the one that was "xna"'s is a web-based twitch spammer. Not even remotely anything like the one that is sold by us.

I'm guessing you were the one who was scammed by the people you have mentioned, or you just want to flex your e-peen by "discovering" scammers, however, please provide solid evidence rather than going on a tyrant about random shit.

<https://i.gyazo.com/8482eee2fe2acf6d9b5c35a931769a62.mp4>

From the looks of your posts, it's clear you're just shitting on anyone with a Twitch service from what I see.

Give me solid evidence and I will delete the proxy sale thread.

I don't know where you get the notion that I think you are hiding anything. In fact, I think you are 100% clueless about the exit-scammer I'm talking about here. Just as all his previous proxy-sellers, they never knew what they were doing when they sold the product because they were as shocked as anyone else when the developer exit scammed.

Just relax, I literally wrote that you are proxy-selling for whoever is behind BorisGangsta and you clearly are, even if he is pretending he's not the developer and he's a "friend of the developer", either you already know that or you should know that by now he is the developer and he's lying to your face as well by pretending to be a "friend".

Let me just clarify something to you. I have never bought any product off Hackforums and probably never will. There is absolutely nothing here that I need and anything I see here that I need I could create it myself. All these Twitch related products, I could code the exact same product myself and release it if I wanted to, these threads have nothing to do with me or what the product is, they are just the same person coming back every time with his product, that's the reason for these threads.

I also like how you show a gif of my post history but you fail to notice all those threads and posts are about the same Twitch product and person. Also, do you really think I am shitting on people just by making a community alert thread? I mean, my last one exposed xna/rus3000es/TwitchHelper and he literally exit scammed the same day, do you consider that a negative thing?

I rarely come to HF, take a look at my profile. I've been here since January 2015, that's almost 4 years now, and I have a total online time of 1 week. That's like 7 days of online time. You've been here since mid-2014 so just a bit before me and you have 102 days of online time, literally almost 15x more time spent on HackForums than me. I really don't care much about the stuff going on here nor care to deal with all the nonsensical drama that happens, but what I do care about is scamming. If I see something wrong, I will expose it.

The other user you don't see any of my threads for is EnigmaCenter. He was similar to all this but he paid someone to code him an EDU bot and was literally ripping people off for it. The thing he had takes about 15 minutes to code and he was trying to sell the bot for like $1,000 to people privately on his Discord and I made sure to stop any of that from happening. Then he also tried to "auction" it here for a BIN of $1,500, again this is for something worth $100 at most (and he told me he paid $200 for it to be developed early on before he started to rip people off left and right). So you can see I got pretty annoyed at his auction thread and literally coded the bot up in 15 minutes and created my own auction thread, obviously a joke one, because it was meant to mock him for his stupid pricing and scammy behaviour (there's a lot more to the story), but in the end after exposing him in other areas he ended up losing all his customers because of those people he ripped off in his own Discord who thought he was their "friend", and he eventually left and I had no reason to continue with my bot and develop it to a working state for public release w/ a UI and all that so I left it.

My point is that I could care less about who it is, what the product is, etc etc. If I see something that is obviously wrong, I will expose it, and I can guarantee you there is something fishy about this product. You are just oblivious to it because you don't know the history nor the details, but as I have seen it come up multiple times I already know the situation and the details. Also, I'm not faulting or blaming you at all, so don't get angry, you are just the seller.

InvisibleZeus - October 8, 2018, 9:31 am

I proxy sold for the old twitch helper -- I was clueless of his past and I lost $2k due to chargebacks. Even if you think he's legit, stay on the safe side.

I'm on no particular side here, but rather want everyone to stay safe and not lose everything like I did.

Omniscient - October 8, 2018, 1:26 pm

Quote: Give me solid evidence and I will delete the proxy sale thread.

Either close the thread or I close your account. Is that clear?

JTMBoss - October 8, 2018, 1:32 pm

very informative post thanks for taking the time to protect the members here from getting ripped off

luke - October 8, 2018, 2:12 pm

(Oct 8, 2018 01:26 PM)Omniscient Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Either close the thread or I close your account. Is that clear?

You got it.

Galaxias - October 8, 2018, 7:13 pm

(Oct 8, 2018 02:12 PM)Stratify Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You got it.

Do your due diligence before proxy selling mate.

Foursenal - October 11, 2018, 12:38 am

It doesn't matter, I'm Twitch legend anyway

Also OP, it looks like you take the fact that you were right to heart. Very very proud about it. lol

SpecterCraze - October 13, 2018, 1:06 pm commended for taking the time to report this. you sir deserve a medal