Thread: [\[OLD\] cSpooF.com - SMS Spoofer | Web Based | 170+ Countries | API](#)

Axe - October 16, 2018, 10:29 pm

On July 6 2020, cSpooF was sold to BrokenSol , and as of July 10 the site will be run solely by him.

What does this mean for you?

Not much, in fact the only change you might experience is a more involved site owner, better customer support, and more frequent updates. To summarise I'll just quote the part of our contract most relevant to you as a customer:

Quote:* All SMS logs will be deleted from the server before the transfer. For legal reasons, the Seller (Axe) will store a backup of the logs on an encrypted offline storage volume. All other logs and tables (like purchase logs, error logs, activity logs) will be included in the transfer. ?

The Buyer (BrokenSol) is required to service existing clientele for at least three months after the transfer is complete. ?

The value of cSpooF ?credits? may not be altered for six months after the transfer is complete. As of July 6, 2020, the cost of sending one SMS is equal to one cSpooF credit. ?

I would like to thank all my customers for giving cSpooF a shot and contributing to its success as a small SMS platform, and also everyone who've otherwise helped me along the way. After months of talks and negotiations I fully trust BrokenSol will do a great job running the service.

And the customer-service is sooo good. U guys that says it's too expensive then you get it where it's cheaper and remember u get what u pay for! I think I maybe should pay him more because he is awesome. Last spoofer I had which some of you may remember was called Hawkeye SMS spoofer and it was a great spoofer and everything and I bought LIFETIME subscription and it was great for a month and the customer service was Clay Davis. So anyway it ended up with them running away with my money and me stuck with a non working spoofer.

So if u guys want a spoofer that is supported all around the world that works, and buying from someone that even offer refunds when the service was unavailable for HIM. Then cSpoofer is the one. I'm going to continue using this spoofer as long as it's available.. 11/10

My first message was sent in 2-3 minutes timespan which is reasonable considering the country i chose. Also you have API access and documentation as well. The account panel lets you track your activity and sessions where you can revoke them. Also for the price you've gotten an additional security setup (2FA). You should definitely consider this service.

I'm very interested in this due to the reasonable price but my only concerns is that the executable strikes 3 on VirusTotal and it can't be run sandboxed. Make this webbased.

I plan to.

The tool uses 961API licensing, which unfortunately comes with some false positives.

There is absolutely nothing malicious in the tool, so I'll see if I can figure out a solution to it

Actually working on something just like that, but the feature would have to be manually approved for each user.

It's probably coming soon, but exclusively for users who need it for business-related reason (marketing and such), and not spamming/bombing.

Make sure your SMS message is not spam-ish, or it might get filtered.

P:S - I would love to see the full supported carrier list because even though spoof sms is fun but if use currently it actually gives you to boost for your product marketing. Please provide the full supported carrier list If possible. It will be benefited for everyone

It does support Unicode. And no, all SMS messages have a maximum length of 140 characters (160 bytes), regardless of spoofer or client. Only working solution is to send multiple messages, like most SMS apps do when the character count goes over 140.

It does not give delivery status other than sent/not sent yet, but I'm planning to implement support for it in countries that allow it.

The world-wide rate is 1 credit per message. You can see credit prices in the thread design.

Also, I do not have a carrier list. It works in most countries, and in the countries it does work, it almost always support all carriers.

If you're wondering about any country in particular I'll gladly let you know whether the country is supported, and if all carriers in said country are supported too. You can also PM me your username for a few testing credits.

The complete list of supported countries is now finished. It will be released along with a name change coming in a couple days.

Developers using our API have to implement our new URL upon release, and will be notified 2 days prior to the release.

Axe - December 30, 2018, 8:09 am

Just pushed a major update, will try to make a short&sweet list of changes:

- Name change (Cemo Spoofer > cSpoofer)

- API change (check cspoofer.com/dashboard/api/docs) Server upgrade, both the spoofer and API are now twice as fast and general uptime should be more reliable.

- UI and UX changes, spoofer should be much smoother & faster List of supported countries is finally here: <https://cspoofer.com/dashboard/help/countries>

- Added a bigger credit package (with even cheaper cost per sms) Improved ToS and privacy policy
- Added a front-end landing page with more relevant information

Upcoming features: SMS verification

- Mass messaging (i.e. use your own number list for mass marketing) Further API improvements (usage logs, parameter for identifying your users, open-source examples of functioning spoofers, etc.)

- More comprehensive explanation of the rules when sending SMS

- * Better support system

All upcoming features use the credit system, so existing customers won't have to re-purchase access.

Good point, hasn't really been an issue thus far but I understand what you mean.
At the moment there isn't really a way to change up the number. I switch up the number about once a month, but other than that we don't do custom numbers.

Our API has a new ID parameter. You can use this to identify which of your users are using your API. This is mostly suited for logging purposes, as I'm planning to implement individual logging of everyones API (only accessible by API owner)

First of all let me tell you that this is a HQ product. NO BS added. What makes this product different from other SPOOFing service is that this offer me with $0.09 per message and its fast. I have tried spoofmymessage.com and others in the past and they are hella expensive and not reliable if i may say. After all I just want to say that this product is 110% HQ and I will continue using this service until there is something cheaper than this which i doubt.

Axe - February 3, 2019, 11:32 am

We now offer 4 new packages, with even better volume discounts (with prices going down to $0.08 per message).

Credit page has also been revamped, and Litecoin has been added as a payment option (will see how it compares to ETH, then remove either by end of month)

Our new payment system (tailored to HF contracts) is going live soon, and all customers from HF will have to purchase credits through contracts.

Will get a sticky or something to edit the links in the OP when update goes live.

Axe - February 5, 2019, 11:51 pm

Number Lookup tool coming very soon.

Lookup essential information about a phone number, and verify its validity. The tool will be completely free, but only available to users who have bought credits.

Axe - February 7, 2019, 3:05 am

Just completed a big UI overhaul of the entire dashboard.

It now looks better, is slightly faster, and the spoofer automatically detects Unicode.

Contracts integration is also ready to roll out, after which all HF users must use contracts to purchase credits.

Axe - February 8, 2019, 3:08 am

Contracts have been integrated in the payment process.

If you are from HF, you MUST use contracts when buying credits. You can get started by clicking the button in the thread or the thread design itself.

Also feel free to PM me for test credits if you want to try it before you buy it. I'm online all day.

Just strict policies. It's still possible to use a custom sender ID in USA, but you need approval, and due to the nature of this service I don't think an application program is necessary yet.

Axe - February 21, 2019, 1:44 am

Soon we're no longer giving free test credits as it's just being abused, and the service now has a proven track record with an official list of supported countries.
Change goes into effect March 1.

Online for a couple more hours, still giving away test credits to new customers. PM me or use the contact info on our website.

Axe - February 27, 2019, 10:46 am

Gateway has been upgraded and should now be faster and support more countries. Updated country list is in the works.

Currently you won't get a detailed error message if your SMS fails to send, but that should be fixed in a couple days.

Axe - February 28, 2019, 10:58 am

This is the last day you'll be able to request free credits. PM me asap if you're interested.

Also, starting from March 1, all purchases MUST be made through the HF contract system. I've implemented a pretty seamless integration of HF contracts in the payment process, and everything is still fully automatic. If you already have a cSpoof account I'd recommend you shoot me a PM with your username so I can mark it as a HF associated account (will make purchases easier). Failure to comply with the new policy could lead to your account being penalized.

Axe - March 1, 2019, 11:13 am

Doing some work on the gateway and API, meaning temporarily you won't get a specific error code/message if your message isn't sent.

Some countries might also temporarily lose spoofing functionality.

This will hopefully be fixed in the coming days.

Axe - March 2, 2019, 11:15 am

Not really an issue with the provider, just the users who abuse the service (prime example a few posts back), which lead to network suspensions among other things.

Hi, China should be supported but there are a lot of local restrictions.

Spoofing is not supported. All messages will be sent from a random local number.

Messages with Chinese characters can contain a maximum amount of 65 characters, and must be pre-approved by a local operator. I.e. you most likely cannot use Chinese characters in your messages to China. Two messages with the same content cannot be sent to the same number in one day.

A maximum of 100 messages with different content can be sent to the same number in one day. All networks in China filter on adult content, gambling, education, migration, financial services & loans, beauty case, cosmetic surgery, healthcare, red timber and alcohol-related content.

Some networks will filter words like Falung Gong, SB & Tiananmen Square.

* All networks will block messages with a URL.

I limited your new account because you already have a banned account, and I immediately sent you a PM telling you to send me your address for a refund.

But since you won't send me your address and you just resorted to posting blatantly incorrect claims here (again), you're not getting a refund. You can keep making accounts but I'll just ban you and from now on I won't offer you any further refunds.

Thats a scam then, because I could make a contract and pay for my SMS messages.

User just admitted scamming me, do not buy!

EDIT will contact staff to check if I can make a scam report on you, terrible seller!

One more thing. I did not have a banned account I could still log in to my old account.

Axe - August 19, 2019, 3:18 am

PM me/post here for some test credits, still giving out 4 each.

In fact I would also like to address the claims above, in case there's any confusion for potential customers.

Roberto was banned for breaking local marketing laws. He then tried to create a new account, and when I banned that one and offered him a refund, he wouldn't take it. He then contacted staff and opened a false deal dispute. When staff looked into it they deemed the dispute invalid, he finally sent me his BTC address so I could refund him, and that's the last I'll hear from this user.

If you are not breaking our terms of service (which are very simple to follow), you won't be banned.

Less than 0.3% of our users have been banned for malicious use.

Bulk messages are not natively supported right now. Working on adding this feature right now, but until then you can use our API to build your own bulk sender.

Messages are logged and they're private in the sense that messages are not brought to my attention unless they contain specific trigger keywords. As long as you stay within the boundaries of the law I'll probably never see them.

1 credit = 1 sms, yes. In the near future 2 credits will get you 1 spoofed call.

Let me know if you'd like any test credits.

Giving away 3 test credits to new users this week. PM me or post here if interested.

Axe - September 9, 2019, 12:24 pm

I'd just like to make a quick statement about an issue we've been struggling with as we've gotten bigger.

Phishing is NOT allowed on cSpooF. Any illegal activity will result in your account getting banned permanently. I implemented a warning system a few months ago so I could give warnings before outright banning users, but it's proven to be ineffective and I will go straight to banning from now on. In addition I'm re-coding the entire project from scratch. Along with a much more powerful API & dashboard (wohoo bulk messaging), and better filters, I will also make the rules more clear to new users.

You can use cSpooF for almost anything, as long as it's within the boundaries of the law. Pranking is fine (as long as it doesn't cause harm). If you break the law in the countries you send SMS to, you can kiss your account and credits goodbye.

97% of our active users are completely fine, but to keep the other 3% from growing some measures have to be put in place. Thank you for understanding, and if you have any questions please do not hesitate to contact me.

Quick update: URLs are no longer allowed. URLs are mostly used for phishing on the platform, so this shouldn't affect legitimate users.

If you have a legitimate URL you'd like to use, contact me and I'll whitelist it ASAP. Thanks.

If your sender ID is alphanumeric (e.g. "InfoSMS"), nobody. If your sender ID is a valid number, the person you spoofed as.

I've got a pretty busy schedule, so I apologize for the time it takes to finish the update.

Core API is finished, only thing remaining is a revamped on-site sender (with dynamic logs). Stuff like improved API docs, revamped country list, etc. will be worked on after the main release, so it should be ready in a few days. Hopefully.

I'm Stanley HF's helper bot. This OP (original poster) of this thread wants everyone to see this page and has elected to bump it to the top of the showthread listing. Since HF doesn't want a ton of LQP (Low Quality Posts) this is the best method of bumping your content. There is a small ?yte fee for each bump. I never doubted you, if would of waited for a month.. Never thought about a refund. I love this product too much.. And the customer-service is sooo good. U guys that says it's to expensive then you get it where it's cheaper and remember u get what u pay for! I think I maybe should pay him more because he is awesome. Last spoofer I had which some of you may remember was called Hawkeye SMS spoofer and it was a great spoofer and everything and I bought LIFETIME subscription and it was great for a month and the customer service was shit. So anyway it ended up with them running away with my money and me stuck with a non working spoofer.

So if u guys want a spoofer that is supported all around the world that works, and buying from someone that even offer refunds when the service was unavailable for HIM. Then cSpoof is the one. I'm going to continue using this spoofer as long as it's available.. 11/10

Belgian networks place some restrictions on SMS, so the sender will be overwritten to a local short code or a random international number, depending on your network.

I've just received the 5 credits test, as a developer myself i really enjoyed the UI, it's super user-friendly, it's impossible to stuck somewhere. My first message was sent in 2-3 minutes timespan which is reasonable considering the country i chose. Also you have API access and documentation as well. The account panel lets you track your activity and sessions where you can revoke them. Also for the price you've gotten an additional security setup (2FA). You should definitely consider this service.

You are not welcome to use this service.

Put plainly, unicode is basically special characters like ?. Required if you need to send messages in a special language like Chinese.

Belgium doesn't support unicode at the time, and to be honest I'm not entirely certain if spoofing works in Belgium right now. But I'd be happy to give you some test credits so you can try yourself.

PayPal deems telecommunications-related businesses as high-risk. They mostly don't allow high-risk businesses, like every other mainstream payment processor.

I get that you're sad because you're not allowed to use this service, but how about you move on with your life and find someone else to bother?

You don't. You didn't follow the laws, and when I sent you the official Lovdata website citing the laws, you kept being a dickhead and refused to accept they're real laws. Following that you've been a nuisance, starting a fake contract just to open a dispute, posting dumb shit on my thread and acting like a fool both in PMs and on Discord. Here's a refresher if you forgot:

I can forgive negligence, but you're not only fundamentally negligent, you're an arrogant moron and you bring nothing but annoyance and problems.

And I'm pretty sure I'm not the only one that feels this way:

I love how you write "I'm not the only one that feels this way" are you aware of that guy made an exit scam? My negative that I left on his account got him so upset so he made an exit scam, we both know that it means that he just tried to build up his account and then make an exit scam. So if it wasn't for my negative he would end up scam higher amounts.

Besides that I can't be wrong, I checked the laws myself and I can confirm that you are wrong.

I do think it would be extremely beneficial to state which countries this tool works with in the original thread. To figure this out, you are lead to your website, which has a paywalled requiring you to sign-up just to figure out if you can even use the service... That makes absolutely no sense what so ever.

cSpoof is back up and registrations have been re-enabled. To prevent downtime like this from happening again I've implemented a few changes.

We now have more rigid filtering. If you keep sending SMS that violate our ToS you will be automatically banned.

URLs must be whitelisted. In the future I might implement a way to request whitelisting on-site, but until then you can contact me personally.

Unfortunately it's impossible to reply to any SMS with an alphanumeric sender ID. Some gateways support two-way messaging, but you'd have to send the messages from a number you own.

Today I've begun implementing a "Verified" usergroup for select customers. I'll be notifying these customers about their new status as I begin issuing invites around late June. We're however already taking requests, so if you want to become verified feel free to contact me either on-site or otherwise.

Verified features include: No filter
No URL whitelist
* Priority support

Might add more features eventually, for now I'm just testing the waters. I'm thinking about offering cheaper credits to verified users as well. There might also be a fee for becoming verified in the near future, depending on your activity and account.

I'm Stanley HF's helper bot. This OP (original poster) of this thread wants everyone to see this page and has elected to bump it to the top of the showthread listing. Since HF doesn't want a ton of LQP (Low Quality Posts) this is the best method of bumping your content. There is a small ?yte fee for each bump. Any OP can bump any of their threads on HF from the linked icon on the top of their first post.

If you haven't already read the first post of this thread we encourage you to do so.

Thanks,
Stanley

On July 6 2020, cSpoof was sold to BrokenSol , and as of July 10 the site will be run solely by him.

What does this mean for you?

Not much, in fact the only change you might experience is a more involved site owner, better customer support, and more frequent updates. To summarise I'll just quote the part of our contract most relevant to you as a customer:

All SMS logs will be deleted from the server before the transfer. For legal reasons, the Seller (Axe) will store a backup of the logs on an encrypted offline storage volume. All other logs and tables (like purchase logs, error logs, activity logs) will be included in the transfer. ?

The Buyer (BrokenSol) is required to service existing clientele for at least three months after the transfer is complete. ?

The value of cSpoof ?credits? may not be altered for six months after the transfer is complete. As of July 6, 2020, the cost of sending one SMS is equal to one cSpoof credit. ?

I would like to thank all my customers for giving cSpoof a shot and contributing to its success as a small SMS platform, and also everyone who've otherwise helped me along the way. After months of talks and negotiations I fully trust BrokenSol will do a great job running the service.
