Thread: wanna bypass the admin page of my router

khansaad1275 - October 17, 2018, 11:29 pm

hey guys I recently started to think about how we can bypass the admin page of the router but I can't find any solution on the internet rather than finding the default username and password for your admin page e.g: for a lot of router in the market nowadays use username:admin and password:admin but i can find any better way to that is there any possibility that we can use SQL injections of that page or any other method.

i really wanna learn that because if we can access someones PC somehow we don't need to ask for there password ? ? that's not its but it has a lot of things we can learn.

You should learn to type what you're trying to communicate more clearly or no one is going to help you or be able to help you.

He is saying that you should learn about the things you are talking about.

Also kid, dont lose your time on this and just go learn better things for your future.
