I have sent a very detailed application through the UserCP feature graciously provided by Omniscent.

I was surprised I didn't get in last time. No point in reapplying if I wasn't accepted last time, right? I put effort into my application and I wouldn't have much more to add to it.

My application for Remote Administration Tools Division

Username: ?usiness

Profile Link: <https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=1705027>

Age: 22

Timezone: US Central

Past Contributions: Since my start on HF back in 2013, I have always set my focus on the Remote Administration Tools section. I have created some of the most visited help desks and tutorials to have ever hit that section. Over the years, I have remotely assisted over 1,000 users and resolved their issues. I was given the RAT Expert award for my efforts and knowledge. I plan to continue producing tutorials for the RAT section, and I have a few in the works right now. No one will represent your group better in this field.

Explain in detail your interest in this division: The RAT section has always been my HF home, so to speak. I get genuine enjoyment out of helping users of all skill levels in any way I can. This usually entails connecting to them remotely and spending time explaining their issues and fixing them by hand. I just purchased a thread design for my RAT Mentor service, so that will be available in the section soon. I think that it would be really fun to teach some of the group members about my field, especially users who have never studied it. I repeat, no one will represent your group better in this field.

Whats past experience do you have to offer?: I have been experimenting with Remote Administration Tools for over 6 years. I have tested well over 20 unique tools, which has given me a very well-rounded skill set. I am one of NINE members that have the RAT Expert award, so that has to speak to my ability to some extent. I would love to teach other group members about my field if they're interested in getting into it!

Are you Interested in learning or helping others to learn more: In the field I am applying for, I would be more interested in teaching than learning. However, I would be more than happy to learn some other skills.

Why do you want to Join Samaritans: I have seen the contributions that your group has put out, and I'm impressed. I'd love to be part of the movement! You're all ready and willing to help, and that's what I'm all about!

Give us one primary reason on whose basis we should accept you: I won't let you down.

Any other disclosure you want to inform us of: Not much else to say. If you'd like to look at my past contributions in the RAT Section, check my threads and sort by views or replies.

I applied in the last recruitment round, but it seems I didn't make it. This was my application:

I'm interested in teaching and learning about subjects within the Financial subjects.

Whats past experience do you have to offer?: I've been an entrepreneur for the past 8 years and I'm experienced in so many things related to success online.

Are you Interested in learning or helping others to learn more:

Yes I am indeed.

Why do you want to Join Samaritans:

I've been very busy the last months but I think it's time to join a group that I can learn from but also contribute to.

Past Contributions: I do a lot of open source coding. Haven't released much on HF, yet.

Explain in detail your interest in this division: I'm in there for the development forums, I live for development

Whats past experience do you have to offer?: I have 6+ years as an employed software developer, I wish to help contributing with my knowledge.

Are you Interested in learning or helping others to learn more: I was an assistance teacher for 4 months back before I got my current job almost 6 years ago. I enjoy teaching and would love to do it again.

Why do you want to Join Samaritans: I started of learning software development at a small community like this myself, it though me everything I needed to know to pass the development examination. So I wish to help others to learn what I have learned so they can become anyone they want to become, cause it all starts with getting a bit of help and assistance to fully understand the beauty of software development. When I first starting learning it, it was hard and boring, but I just really wanted to build a small website, but once I found the help I really enjoyed coding... without this help I might still have fixed the problem I had, but might not have stucked to it. Since coding can really be a nightmare sometimes, specially for new-commers.

Give us one primary reason on whose basis we should accept you: I have a lot of knowledge in development that I can contribute with.

Any other disclosure you want to inform us of: Send me a PM to get my Github account to see my knowledge and contributions.

Past Contributions: I research a lot and have done a lot of hacking/cracking. Not much on HF yet, though!

Explain in detail your interest in this division: I am a really techie guy and I interest myself in computing and removing viruses and hacking/cracking.

Whats past experience do you have to offer?: I am good at basic hacking and cracking and I can do some simple graphic design work.

Are you Interested in learning or helping others to learn more: Yes, I am generally a helpful person, and I love to expand the knowledge of everyone around me.

Why do you want to Join Samaritans: I want to join the Samaritans because I want to be a part of an excellent group of people who have all kinds of skills and I want to contribute to this society.

Give us one primary reason on whose basis we should accept you: I can contribute in many topics and I am an active user.

Past Contributions: I'll be honest, I've been at HF since 2009. That would have made me ~13 years old at the time I registered. I've been here for so many years gathering information and never giving back. I suppose this was due to the fact that I didn't really have any knowledge to give. I wouldn't have wanted to spread information that I wasn't fully confident in. Around 2014, I started an exchange thread as I dove deeper into the crypto-space. I was a very active exchanger for about 2 years until my academic schedule became too rigorous. After taking a 2 year long break (2016-2018), I've come back in interest of continuing my learning experience and currency exchanges while also spreading the knowledge I've gained in the past couple years of my life.

Explain in detail your interest in this division: As far as the social division goes, I'd like to say that I'm fairly educated. I will be graduating in a semester with a degree in biochemistry and a minor in exercise physiology. I will be preparing for the MCAT and applying to medical school in ~fall of 2019. I suppose that would cover some of the sections such as health, education, and ambitions. As far as the finance division goes, my biggest hobby is trading within the cryptocommunity. My family and I are heavily into crypto. We are heavily invested in BTC and many other prominent alt-coins and even own warehouse space where we mine for various currencies such as LTC. I'm constantly acquiring new information as this field is rapidly expanding.

What past experience do you have to offer?: Like I said, I'd like to think that I'm well educated after spending 4 years at university with many hours of hospital volunteer, shadowing, and undergraduate research in labs. I will likely spend another 4 in medical school. As far as cryptocurrency goes, I've been with this movement from the very start and know quite a bit about developers and their projects, how alt-coins evolve over time, and a vision for the practical usage of these currencies in our modern society.

Are you Interested in learning or helping others to learn more: This was one of the main reasons I came back to HF. There are lots of questions asked here with very few adequate answers.

Why do you want to Join Samaritans: I believe that the acquisition and distribution of knowledge is what drives a community/society to success. The easiest way to be successful is to learn from those who achieved success around you.

Give us one primary reason on whose basis we should accept you: I'm active and motivated.

Any other disclosure you want to inform us of:N/A Past Contributions: Basic OpSec guide, BTC Giveaway and active in the Botnets/RATs section helping newcomers and answering any questions.

Explain in detail your interest in the computing field: I've owned a computer since the age of 5 and grew up playing computer games with my dad, I experienced how fun they could be and then later on when he stopped using his I had more time to research whatever I wanted. I started looking into RAting and spreading methods when I was 10, back in the Dark Comet days and learned from there. I have always knew of HF with many friends using it however was scared to as I always heard it had a toxic community, although now I'm finally here I'm happy to say I disagree and I'm very excited to help spread my knowledge.

Whats past experience do you have to offer?: I have worked with botnets, RATs, miners and more for around 6 years now and can setup most tools out there, I have time and experience to offer anyone new to ensure they don't waste their time/money on tools that don't work or things they don't need. I've also setup websites, forums, shops & more, meaning I have experience in databases, different operating systems like Debian/CentOS and can troubleshoot on them and setup apps quite well for other members.

Are you Interested in learning or helping others to learn more: Certainly, I want to spread as much knowledge as I can so that we can all learn together and progress. I'm sure I have knowledge that will be useful and helpful to others, and I'm sure others have knowledge that will be useful and helpful to me, I plan to be a team player in the group and help anyone with their needs/requests to the best of my ability.

Why do you want to Join Samaritans: I want to join a group to have a wider audience with my knowledge, currently I just browse the forum looking for users to help however if I'm in a group I can start projects and work on them with other group members or help them with theirs.

Give us one primary reason on whose basis we should accept you: I will help every member to the best of my ability, I'm not selfish and will spend hours of my own time and hard work ensuring the group member I'm helping is satisfied.

Any other disclosure you want to inform us of: I'm extremely active and will be online for hours daily. You will certainly see me being active.

Past Contributions:

I have been a member of this forum since 2013, and even though I wish I had contributed a lot more than I have in the last 5 or so years, I have contributed in a few different ways. I have always been a friendly member during my time here, and have always helped everyone who has requested help from me. I never accepted any form of payment for helping others, as it's just what I enjoy doing. I wouldn't say I have a fantastic unique skill, but I do have some knowledge of different things and I am always willing to not only learn new things but also to help others with things I learn and know.

I have also hosted multiple giveaways and contributed to the forum by donating to support the website. I am always friendly to new members, helping them with any questions they may have or assisting them with things they aren't too sure about.

Explain in detail your interest in this division:

The reason why I decided to choose the Social division was because I believe I would be a great asset to the division. I enjoy talking to all sorts of different people from around the forum, about all sorts of different topics. I believe I am a friendly user, which I believe is important when helping or just simply talking to other members around the forum.

I like helping people with all sorts of different things such as setting up programs or settings, whether that be hacking related, gaming related, or anything else really. I also enjoy talking to people when they are having some issues or problems in their daily life. I believe I am a great listener and a really easy person to get along with, as well as a very easy person to have a conversation with - about anything! I am a very open minded person and I like to find the best in people!

Whats past experience do you have to offer?:

I have had a TON of experience using not only this forum, but other forums and websites before and after Hackforums. I have been a member of this community for over 5 years now, and even though I have come and gone a few times now - I have been back for a little over a month now and I plan on staying active as this website is an all time favourite of mine. Like I said, I am a very easy going person who loves to have a conversation about literally anything. Whether that be a simple conversation, or a more in depth conversation.

I have learnt a lot from this website, and I always give back whenever I get the chance to. My past experiences include Remote Administration Tools, one of my first topics I ever learnt here as well as basic Keylogging and basic E-Whoring. I have had some experience with proxies also. I have a decent idea of the Crypto Currency market, and like to always help others that are just starting out in the market. I like to keep up with all the latest news and all the latest coins, to then use that information to help others!

Are you Interested in learning or helping others to learn more:

Absolutely! I am ALWAYS interested in learning about all sorts of different things. A lot of things that I know relating to many topics online is from Hackforums and like I said above, I am always willing to help out others in learning! I enjoy giving back to the community that has taught me so much.

Why do you want to Join Samaritans:

I like the idea and feel of the group. I get the feeling that you make users more 'comfortable' in using the forum and I get the feeling that you actually care about not only the new users to the forum, but also the older users who are willing and interested to learn all sorts of different topics. I feel like the group name 'Samaritans' is a perfect name for the group as it describes it perfectly in one word. I like seeing everything the group does around the forum and I would love to be apart of that.

Give us one primary reason on whose basis we should accept you:

I am reliable! I will be super committed to the group and will do everything that is required from me without hesitation. I will follow all rules that are in place for the group and will represent the group at the best I possibly can.

Any other disclosure you want to inform us of:

Thank you for taking the time to read my application. Please send me a PM if you would like any further information regarding my application. I hope to be apart of your wonderful group soon!

Past Contributions: Not a lot of people would know me, however, I was a staff member back in 2010, however, I had to quit Hack Forums in 2011 due to some unforeseen events in a job opportunity, so I had no time for Hack Forums - not as much as I wanted to present, anyway.

Explain in detail your interest in this division: I am an early-bird investor of Bitcoin, and I have been in the game since 2009 when I first read about it on Reddit. I used to make threads about Bitcoin here on Hack Forums when I first started investing. Sadly my account has been completely removed from Hack Forums, so I can't even present that anymore. I'm very interested in not only the making money part (hehe) - but also the blockchain technology behind cryptocurrency itself.

Whats past experience do you have to offer?: I'd like to say that I am quite familiar with graph reading, and I have been able to predict drops/increases in the past based on research & graphs. Some might call it luck - others call it a taste for common sense.

Are you Interested in learning or helping others to learn more: Yes, absolutely - we all have experience we can share with each other, and I'd love to teach from myself, and also learn something from other members.

Why do you want to Join Samaritans: It's been years since I was active on here, and I'd love to try and see if I can get the interest back for Hack Forums, or just remotely close to as much as I used to have. Being in a group, and having a larger group of people to talk to daily makes it easier to get interested in the forum again.

Give us one primary reason on whose basis we should accept you: I'm experienced, I have a lot of life experience I can share, and I'm always there for a joke or two.

Any other disclosure you want to inform us of: I'm an open book - feel free to message me if you have any questions about me.

Explain in detail your interest in this division:I'm interested in the division because I want to get to know other people that enjoy watching just like me and I'd like to share what animes I like and I want to see what other anime people can put me on!

this division is great for me because I want to discuss about other episodes and what I'll think is gonna happen and debate on anime politics haha

Whats past experience do you have to offer?:There isn't really anything to say about this. Im confused but I guess my past experience I could offer is what show I can suggest to someone, sorry for this respond I don't really get it

Are you Interested in learning or helping others to learn more:Yes of course I'm thrust for new knowledge to know and I'd like to learn some new things such as Coding & Remote Administration Tools and I promise that I'm only gonna use it for good like to troll my friends and not to harm others

Why do you want to Join Samaritans:I want to join Samaritans because It seems like a great group to be in and also it has one of my favorite division which is Anime Addicts.

I also want to join because I want to make new friends and discus new things such as shows and other things not just anime

Past Contributions:

Since rejoining Hackforums I have maintained my activity both within the forum as well as within the private groups that I have been a part of. One of my more analytical contributions to the forum was a thread I posted discussing the reality of EMP attacks.

The thread can be seen at the following link:

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5891520>

Explain in detail your interest in this division:

I am interested in this division the most because I have grown an affinity for the lounge, personal life, and social aspects of this forum. I am regularly posting in these sections and feel that I would best be able to represent this groups high standards within the 'Social' sections.

What past experience do you have to offer?:

I have a vast knowledge of innovation, analytical writing, and a general understanding of human psychology. I feel that the primary factor that will help me in these sections will be my helpful attitude and current activity in the forum.

Are you Interested in learning or helping others to learn more:

I enjoy meaningful discussions where I can learn from others however I also enjoy giving back to the community, helping others, and teaching whenever I can. It is a tough choice having to pick between the two as I believe most good leaders can learn as much from others and they can teach. If I had to pick one, I would have to say that I enjoy helping others more.

Why do you want to Join Samaritans:

I would like to join the group because I enjoy meeting new people as well as developing longer lasting friendships. I feel that groups are a tighter knit group of people and I enjoy socializing with a more common group. I also enjoy contributing within a small community of people where I know that contributions don't go unappreciated.

Give us one primary reason on whose basis we should accept you:

I have close to 10 years of experience in the fields listed above under skills. I have studied multiple topics at the collegiate level and feel that I could contribute at a higher level than most standard users. I believe that quality of posts and activity is an important factor to be considered for this group. What I think really sets me apart from other candidates and will make me a good addition to your group is my ability to combine activity and knowledge with my interpersonal skills. I value lasting relationships and actively seek to build those with fellow members.

Past Contributions: Not that many, although I have helped many people in the past with setting up RAT softwares, and helping users setting up virtual machines and malware removal. I am also getting into anime more and more and I have suggested some of the animes I have enjoyed in the anime addicts section.

Explain in detail your interest in this division: This group looks amazing, and seems to have many knowledgable people. My knowledge is fairly limited at the moment, and I would love to both learn and share my knowledge with other people. Like I said, I am also getting into anime, as it is just so enjoyable to watch, much more than anything else I have seen in my life. Especially the hair, I love anime hair lol :D. I also see the social division, maybe I could discuss some things with some knowledgable members over there, as I have trouble mentally.

Whats past experience do you have to offer?: I have been using computers daily ever since I was 5 years old. Back then, my knowledge was very limited, however it has greatly improved in the last few years. I am interested in both hardware and software, and I enjoy upgrading and installing hardware a lot (it's just so fun to take things apart and upgrade them). I do have some basic coding knowledge, and I hope to become much better at it. Right now, I can do some basic visual basic and python coding, but nothing too complex yet. In secondary school, I got a level 8 (equivalent to A*, the highest possible is a level 9) in computer science, and it was pretty much the only lesson I enjoyed at school. We learned a lot about hardware and software, such as logic gates, adding and subtracting binary numbers, and about primary and secondary storage. I have also built multiple computers, both for me, my parents, and my grandparents, each with their own use case.

Are you Interested in learning or helping others to learn more: Both of course! I enjoy helping people out to the best of my ability and sharing my knowledge with other people. I am also very interested in learning more about computers and anime!

Why do you want to Join Samaritans: I have never been in a HF group before, and I think that it will be a very interesting a full experience that could both improve mine and other peoples lives.

Everyone in the group looks like great and helpful people, that would help out anyone who needs help, and I would love to do that too!

Give us one primary reason on whose basis we should accept you: I have experience with computers in the past, and would want to continue using them for the rest of my life, while gaining more knowledge and helping other people out.

Any other disclosure you want to inform us of: I sometimes have trouble communicating with certain people, and it can often take me minutes to think of a response. I try my best to respond with words that make sense as much as possible though! I wish you good luck in the future whether you invite me or not, I understand.

My application for Network Security Division

Username: mentoles

Profile Link: <https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=581766>

Age: 21

Timezone: +2 GMT

Past Contributions: I've contributed mostly on GFX section of the forum the last time I was active. Free graphics for members and advice here and there. I was active on Computer Hardware section as well by helping other members build their setups.

Explain in detail your interest in this division: I am currently a Computer Science student and I'm getting expertise in Networking and Telecommunication. Networking is a subject that I chose to learn, I love it and that's what I want to do as my job, be a Network Engineer. This division is the one I feel I belong the most among the others.

Whats past experience do you have to offer?: I have a background with graphics. Learning how to use photoshop was my first source of income back in the days. So I have a good knowledge of it. As I mentioned before, I am a CS student. I have a good knowledge of programming (C/Java/PHP/Javascript) and computer hardware (pc parts/Assembly and VHDL coding).

Are you Interested in learning or helping others to learn more: I am literally interested in both. I want to share my knowledge not only to other members of the group but to every HF user interested, always in the name of the group. On the other hand, I feel, as a student, that I have a lot more to learn in the field and I'm excited about it.

Why do you want to Join Samaritans: Samaritans is a group that has divisions that are on the same topic as my studies. The fact that I can discuss with people and share knowledge with people interest on the same field is intriguing.

Give us one primary reason on whose basis we should accept you: My character, my ability to work in a team and my good attitude, as a whole, make me, in my opinion, a good candidate.

Any other disclosure you want to inform us of: Thank you for your time!

Age: 18.

Timezone: GMT -6:00.

Past Contributions: I don't have any. I'm still a relatively new member, but then again, that's why I want to join the group, to contribute to the forum.

Explain in detail your interest in this division: I don't have many abilities, but one thing I can do, help people and care for them, which is why I want to join this division in particular.

Whats past experience do you have to offer?: As a young man, I still have a lot to learn, nevertheless, I have helped several people to overcome their problems throughout my life.

I strongly believe that you don't need any kind of experience for this though, you just have to be empathic.

Are you Interested in learning or helping others to learn more: Of course, that's the main reason I have to join this group.

Why do you want to Join Samaritans: A month ago, I had some personal problems that I needed to take care of. One day, I opened HF and I saw this amazing thread from BowmanBot:

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5789156>. When I clicked on it I felt warmness and security. I messaged several members that were listed on the thread to get some help, they answered right back with kind and motivating advices that helped me solve my problems.

That's why; I want to help other people like Samaritans helped me.

Give us one primary reason on whose basis we should accept you: I'm an open minded person and I'm always looking for growth. I ensure you that I will be a helpful member of the group.

Any other disclosure you want to inform us of: Not much, but I do want to thank you guys for doing such an awesome work with all of your support threads.

Good luck to everyone who applied!

Past Contributions: I joined HF around 2016, didn't really dive into the community that much, I was basically just a huge lurker and barely commented about anything. Learnt some and taught some about e-whoring when I first started here. I tried to help out as much as I could but 2 years ago I had less knowledge than I do now, I still have the same helping mindset though.

Explain in detail your interest in this division: Being a good Samaritan in general is something that always has been a part of me, as I am constantly try to help people out whether it be online, or in real life when someone has an issue that I can help with. In the lounge, and vices especially I try to guide people and give them my knowledge and opinions to help them with whatever they need. I want to seek and gain knowledge, but share it at the same time. I've always been the first one my friends go to for alot of their problems, because even if I can't help them directly, I can always do my best to help them through whatever is happening, or just be someone for them to talk to, and be a good samaritan for me, which is why I believe this group is perfect for me.

Whats past experience do you have to offer?: In the past like I have stated above, I have always tried to educate people so they can make the most informed choices to the best of my ability. Offering general knowledge and making others feel good is really important in my opinion. However, since I am only recently getting back into hackforums, there are limited past experiences that I have had.

Are you Interested in learning or helping others to learn more: I am definitively more inclined to help others, but know that I still have plenty to learn and am open to anything. Anything that I can help with I will.

Why do you want to Join Samaritans: I want to join Samaritans because it is a group that I can relate to and hopefully the other members have similar mindsets to myself, who all love to give back to HF. It will be my first ever hackforums group as well, and would be very exciting to be a part of a community on here

Give us one primary reason on whose basis we should accept you: I think this group would not only let me give back and become a better person for the hackforums community, but would also allow me to better myself and others in many ways. I feel that I am a very nice person and I am sure you wouldn't regret accepting me!

Any other disclosure you want to inform us of: I would just like to say thank you for the opportunity, regardless of your decision!
