Can you add proof to your thread?

I'm still working on adding few thing to my thread, like some images of the ads but I can't show much of my clients outside the HF cause of privacy policy but I'll try to gather as much information as possible. I need to add Terms too.

Update: Finished with thread design, everything is added. I'll keep adding images of successful campaigns.

No sales trashing but those are some very amateurish level results in the screenshots you have provided.

Anyways, good luck with the service.

As I already stated, I can't show the results from my customers outside the HackForums. I'm working on adding more results (also stated before), but all those results are from HackForums customers and sadly those campaigns are based on low budget.

You should understand the difference between advertising an awesome and professional corporate website and some dropshipping store with cheap Asian products and awful store design. I try to help my customers with editing the websites/stores so that ads could perform better, but I really can't do everything for them.

I guess this is the payback for what I wrote on your "Advertising template".

Thanks!
