Thread: DMA Cheats \(default PCILeech\) detected.

Tayl0rKing - October 24, 2018, 5:51 am

Hey guys, esea just released an AC Update which detects default PCILeech on PCIScreamer (nothing modified and still same id).

Afaik, link to blog post: <https://blog.es-ea.net/esea-hardware-cheats/amp/>

Link to bans: <http://dying-is.fun/Ae4MJaiESU7nvGM.png>

Seems very interesting, not all hardware cheats are affected. only default PCIIeech in a combination of PCIScreamer are detected.

Anybody got more info on this? :)

Saw this coming a mile away.

Also, nice try Few.

Do not forget lads, God Rizla called this out 2-3 weeks ago

Silver Fang - October 24, 2018, 2:14 pm

Faceit platform has updated their AC a few days back and a few top players around on the platform received bans. I suspect it was due to HD cheats as well.

All I am sure of is that xype/esneic were using and esneic continued to use that glitch.

Oh yeah that could also be it, Pishila was banned on ESEA for :EDITED: Matchfixing/Malicious activity (Though he cheated as well) a while ago then he turned to Faceit and so i thought it was for cheating with software again.

A few swedes got their hands on the HD cheat that i know of... wouldn't be surprised if it was the HD detection though.

I guess it's impossible to break the HD cheats/detect it except of the PCILeech one.

I think that too because IMO Xype cheat for years but no ban. Few others cheat too and no ban. I don't think they use DMA hack though.

shock gasp horror

ESEA have been sat on this for a while; notorious for being silent sleepers and harvesting data. (PCILeech has been a public github repo for 2 years as well...)

Unfortunately alot of people are still selling this shit (especially on D3scene) a large majority don't even make the effort to change the deviceId COUGH owl COUGH.

Also if you were one of the morons that bought into this shit; ask your coder for the source due to the nature of the GNU GPL v3 license.

Pishila got banned for matchfixing, not cheating.

about dma cheats based on pcileech, with proper modifications they are undetected, of course it will get you banned in 'as it is' use, it's like downloading ayyware source and hoping it won't get you banned lol

Yes he cheated, not denying that fact.

He got banned for matchfixing/Malicious Activity.

About just modifying PCILeech.

You'd need to do more than that.

Change Device ID etc, considering default ID's of these boards are obviously noted down.

I didn't say anything about boards, I was talking directly about pci leech as someone said it is 'detected'.

never even heard of this shit, if it was so public why does no popular p2c offer it?

Because the Hardware is ~$500+ and PCILeech is licensed under GPL v3 which doesn't allow commercial use if you do not make it open source as well.

Also one of the guys who offered it got exposed by us (it's in german though):

makes sense my bad, but i dont see why anyone would pay $500+ for something thats detected.

It's not detected in general. They might've done something to detect the people who have no idea what they're doing (which is most of them) but I know at least 3 people who are still using those kind of cheats on ESEA and Facelt.

Depending on a few factors we might release one in early 2019, we'll see.
