Thread: Upload a apk file on host?

Memoma - October 24, 2018, 11:00 am

I have a website like google play. When they click on download app, i want the apk to download directley. How to do this?

I used to have the apk file on a site where it needs 30 sec waiting untill the download starts but that is no good.

This is your site correct, contact your hosting how is this hacking related? It's more of a hosting/coding issue if you have them on a timer edit your source.

Well what do you think the apk file is, a fucking free amazon gift code my victims will get?
Of course its a android rat.

So a fake google play site with a good looking app,when clicl on download the victim thinks its a game or what ever and inatalls it

So do you want us to look at your source code and figure out what's going on, put a link to your phishing site.

Ahh okay that makes it easier, you can upload multiple ways SSH/FTP/SCP I always say stay away from FTP use SFTP. It depends a bit on your hosting as well like free hosting not all them have ftp or ssh upload.

<https://tecaadmin.net/download-upload-files-using-ftp-command-line/> (ftp once again security should be at the top of your list)

(I apologize if I was a jerk)

People won't download random shit from a fake looking google play site if people can get to Google Play and download other 100% better stuff.
