When you are a newbie, you have questions like:

Where do I start?

Am I messing up?

Will this work?

How much $$ do I need to start?

Well.

I'm here to answer your questions. Not going to charge a dime.

Just looking to help people out, so start posting your questions below. I will reply as soon I see it.

P.S: I'm experienced in affiliate marketing, lead generation and freelancing. So if your question is related to one of those topics, it's your lucky day.

OK I need a bit of help.

I ran a bing ads campaign of 40$ and got 12 $ which is very low. I am promoting one offer from max bounty kinda need help here.

thanks

I don't know if you have claimed already, but you can get a 100$ Bing ad coupon for free.

I'm really in need of a direction to go. I am a beginning entrepreneur but have nothing to put towards an initial investment. Is there a way to skip the investing part? Even if it's the slowest start-up..

I'm not familiar with bing ads so I'm gonna pass on this one.

Yes.

Infact, you do not need to invest anything at all.

Learn a skill and sell it.

It just takes time, and you will make money.

I have looked at affiliate marketing before in the past but never gave it a shot, I don't have much money to invest into this but i'm sure if I make a even a small return it will give me more confidence in funding it.

I'm guessing to have a website or maybe Facebook page to push the affiliate links etc would be a good start, would something like word press or Facebook page be something you recommend as low/no cost starters, any tips would be appreciated.

Then if I run a low cost maybe a couple $ a week Facebook ads campaign to get some spread ?

Appreciate the help, Thanks in advance ?

Don't bother to start with paid advertisement until you have atleast $2k to invest.

You are going to get demotivated if you start a blog since you won't get visitors in the first few months.
