Thread: 7 years and a forum hasn't come close..

Social Engineer - October 27, 2018, 1:32 pm

So tomorrow is my 7 years anniversary on Hackforums. I'm not going to go on and on but honestly, this is one of the best platforms I've found online. You give to the community, the community will give to you.

HackForums was here for me when I went through my wanting to become a l33t hax0r phase.
When I went through my Gaming phase.
..when I wanted to learn web development.
..when I wanted to learn how to photoshop
...when I wanted to learn how to make money online.

I've been a member of several forums, however not many have had me coming back to them constantly. Undoubtedly one of the best forums for me that I have found - and one that I am very glad that I did.

All I want to say to the people here reading this is that Omni has built a great platform here for people of all backgrounds and interested in pretty much whatever you want to get involved in online and offline. I've learnt a lot from this from forum and I have no doubt if you invest your time and energy properly, you could also learn a lot.

So cherish this forum, make the most of it. Make the most of the community members and their generosity.

This is one of the only forums you'll find where people have many skillsets and talents, make use of them.

Thank you HackForums, for what you have done for me and undoubtedly will continue doing so. Here's to another 7 years.

Congrats.

Although I don't think I've ever seen you around.

You wouldn't have. I haven't been as active as I used to be when I first got started here!

Ah, okay.

There are a lot of members that are like that.

I'm coming up on 5 years.

I think life just catches on eventually, work and personal life only get busier as the years go by - and congrats!

Congrats dude, i myself realized how dope this website can be even with all the bs that comes with it but no site is oblivious to it.

Keep pushing.
