Thread: Who's Majesty Holdings on Hackforums? Keeping \$600 hostage

Wolf - October 28, 2018, 6:20 am

I've dealt with a member who scammed me for $600. But, there might be the case I've sent the funds to other member's PayPal account.

The dispute is currently ongoing and I've received this message which is confusing me.

Edit: Found the owner.

Fair enough. The whole thing looks crazy confusing. Hopefully when Omni makes the thread he was talking about it will help you get some clarity

And now it turns out he was trying to middleman a deal, and when he got scammed, the person he did the deal for is not refunding me my money. I have withdrawn it before then, but due to this man's negligence, I am at risk of losing my paypal. I will me opening up a dispute again him today.

The money is rightfully his though. I can't say, that I would be willing to go with your proposals even if I was the one sending the funds.

Looks like he may have obtained that account in June. He very well may be involved in the scam. I have closed his account.

Oh well. Not much I can do about that. I'll have to fight the case, since he won't be issuing a refund.

Playing a victim here and finger pointing at me.

UpTheCrust - October 30, 2018, 6:05 pm

There are so many crazy twists and turns to this.

I wish everyone would play fair on here. Sorry for your loss.
