nice name

doesnt seem to fit your name as u seem like a nice little boy that likes crypto

new group name: crypto goons

Nuworld - October 28, 2018, 8:18 pm
Interesting to say the least.
I like the concept and the idea.

I'm still on the fence about it though.
I would need more information and the direction this crew would follow.

You have my attention?

Nate - October 28, 2018, 10:47 pm
Damn I'm really interested, I hope to get some more bytes by posting more often.

I've increased my activity greatly throughout the past month.

Hope to get some easy bytes and join up

The group name is perfect for me.

May consider a 2500 byte requirement just to start. It's hard to tell what requirements to set when we have no idea how crew battles will function and how much they will cost.

GreyGorilla - October 29, 2018, 8:18 am

You can. Right now it's just a byte and upgrade requirement to get in really. Once the first slots are filled and more information comes out about Crews, requirements will change and potentially be harder.

I'm thinking of lowering the requirement and perhaps doing a monthly fee until we know set prices or what not. What do you think about that?

One of the more obvious reasons is to ensure that members of the cartel are active. You do want anyone sitting in jail (inactive) for a long period of time, they are not of use to you, Godfather.

That would probably be a better system since we may need funds on a regular basis. There may be games that require bytes or methods of getting bytes stolen. Not sure what all cartels entail yet, but I definitely support the idea of monthly dues.

I'm considering halving the requirement to 2500 bytes then requiring a monthly fee of 1000 bytes (about 4-5 posts a day).

This promotes forum activity, ensures the vault will have a sufficient balance in case of emergencies, and will help keep track of how active the cartel is. Don't want any snakes. ?

This wouldn't be a bad idea.

I just realized bytes were upped to 6 per post, it would only take me 383 posts to get the 2500 haha.

How does stealing from other crews work? Do we know yet?

No, we have no idea yet. Xerotic said he will not likely release any information beforehand which sucks as crews won't have any time to prepare for anything. So whenever anything's released it'll be a bloody struggle in the beginning.

The entire point of a crew having a vault is that money can't be stolen?

I believe he said you'd only be able to steal from other crew members? Hopefully, I can save up enough bytes to join, I think crews are going to be pretty cool.

I'm assuming it's the opposite, any bytes in the vault are up for grabs/in "play" and any bytes that users have can not be stolen/used in the game/war/battle/activity

Hence... thanks for stocking up your vault @goons.. we'll be sure to wipe it out clean :)

Not until things start happening with Crews. We haven't made a decision on that, but the bytes fees wouldn't likely be high at all only only be once a month IF we decide to do it.
