My little brother has been skipping school and just not talking to my parents at all hes on the pc almost 24/7 now and goes to sleep at like 4 am.

3 months ago some people caught him standing at a bridge at 5 am and called the cops hes in some weird discords aswell and idk whats up with him because hes so annoying to talk to. He also always hides his texts and everytime we ask him about it hes like "its private"

little scenario:

He skips school.

Us: Why didn't you go to school?

Him: Why would i go to school?

Us: To get your degree?

Him: Okay.

Idk whats going on with him and i'd like to find out by looking through his phone so is there anyway i can get access to it? he won't give the 4 digits needed to access it. Anyway i can bypass it?.

If you think he is suicidal you should try to get him some help. If your brother catches you trying to hack into his phone it'll probably make the situation worse. Professional help is better than you trying to play detective.

Sorry to hear about your brother, maybe try getting someone to come into your house so he can talk with them instead since his not going? Wish could be more help but was not in this situation before.

But it really does sound that he needs to really speak to a specialist since you did mention people caught him on a bridge. But anyhow hope this does calm down your brother is gets through it OP.

Good luck!

Sorry about your brother man. Wish I could say I know how you feel, but I don't. Perhaps send him into a clinic to get checked out? He should also be taking sleeping pills, sleep deprivation can lead to those problems quick.

Sorry to hear about your brother, and I know that no one has really answered your main question. What kind of phone is your brother using?

Did you read the original post instead of posting b.s.? It was detrimental that he get into his brother's phone (with or without permission)
