Thread: Watch Stupid People Hold Their Kids in the Air

Business - November 6, 2018, 12:36 am

This new trend called "The Lion King Cam" is trending at some sporting events right now. Basically, they play "Circle of Life" from The Lion King and people hold their kids up in the air... yikes. ? ?

Thoughts?

Give it a week or two before it calms down.

I'm watching to see a kid fall.

This isn't as dangerous as I thought I was thinking some Michael Jackson shit where the kid is dangling and one slip is all bad, this isn't too great. Kids can be rather lively and squirm. I don't think that it's too bad dumb definitely dumb and pointless, it's like Faith Hilling, Taylor Swifiting, Putty Whistling I think they call this "Lion Kinging".

I've never had an issue with this. Not sure why people are getting upset over it. My dad would do this shit all the time when I was a kid and throw me up and down. Never once was dropped. Like grab a pillow and hold it in the air tightly... you're not gonna drop it. It's not an animal that's gonna somehow spazz out and wanna go.

CULTURAL APPROPRIATION! STOP IT NOW BEFORE I CALL THE SJWPOLICE

I have no issue with the act of raising the kids up, I just think it's goofy that they're holding their kids in the air for a chance to be on TV!

Yeah I guess the idea of the cam is stupid. I don't see why you'd bring your baby to a professional sporting event either. But the argument that kids will be dropped by the parent is making me scratch my head a little bit.

It's not as stupid as the challenges HF members do for the gram or snaps. If anything it's the best thing to come out of social media since it's creation.

Who Soup - November 6, 2018, 9:21 pm

This is going to stop once people start dropping their kids.

Yeah my dad tossing me up in the air and catching me or holding me over his head so I could pretend to be an airplane is something that kids and parents do. People dumb and had bad childhoods.
