I particularly like this not-shady-at-all bit.

EDIT: I'm satisfied it's totally mundane, sorry to have doubted y'all!

I particularly like this not-shady-at-all bit.

Feel free to scan it or whatever you need to do. It creates a 3rd party .exe in the %temp% folder. This allows you to click the cmd console and capture X Y, and left and right clicks. So this is a very useful 3rd party for batch. If you choose, you can also delete this from the script and it will run fine except you wont be able to click it.

You can trust this member he codes fantastic batch scripts and shares it with us.

My sincere apologies, I spent a while looking at it in IDA and the implication was unfounded. A healthy amount of paranoia can be good in a place like this, but perhaps I overdid it ?

I can't say I would t have reacted that way as well. When it comes to code that are like this and are illegible then it strikes paranoia for those who may know better

I like the new options they make game more fun to play with.

Always fun to have some games when you're bored. Thanks for this!

Will be updating OP soonish. I rewrote the %button% macros which should help cut down byte size.
