EpicToaster - November 7, 2018, 6:23 pm

Hey people, im looking into buying a new mac and i dont know if i should buy the new macbook air or pay $350 more to get the macbook pro?

PerfectStorm - November 7, 2018, 6:24 pm

If I had a choice I would get the Pro. Of course it depends on your financial situation.

Black Lives Matter ~ - November 7, 2018, 6:26 pm

I'd say get the Macbook Pro! Good luck!

saucepotato - November 7, 2018, 9:19 pm

Pro 100%, get the 15 inch. I regret getting the 13 inch ver.

If it's only for coding, the Air is honestly enough (except if you will code huge programs).

But it will shows some difficulties if you are looking for photo/video editing.

I use a MacBook air 2013. Does everything I need. Can still code. If you can afford it upgrade to a pro. Otherwise any MacBook air will do.

Jarymaine - November 9, 2018, 11:52 am

Both are great choices, do whatever you want!

PerfectStorm - November 9, 2018, 11:53 am

Very insightful lol maybe a recommend would help

This user knows what he is talking about, if you pick from both of these choices, Never go for Air. Just never the Air.

MOMM Miami - November 11, 2018, 9:23 am is it the new macbook air or the old one?

OcelotcR - November 14, 2018, 8:13 am

Well, what would you use it for? Thats the main deciding factor.

If you're not doing heavy duty editing or production then you dont need a pro etc etc

qwerty123uiop - November 14, 2018, 8:17 am

How about you will buy both of them haha?!

Dan. - November 14, 2018, 6:52 pm

For just light web browsing I think the air is a pretty good deal. I've thought about getting the new one.

nostalgia98 - November 15, 2018, 3:08 pm

Pro is what is like more but i see more ppl use air atm

HeraldLawJr - November 15, 2018, 3:25 pm

The macbook air is really good but you should get whatever you like tbh.

EpicToaster - November 21, 2018, 6:17 pm

For what you're doing, I'd say you made the right choice. My wife has an Air, and I have an MBP. And while her Air is great for what she needs it for, as a developer I couldn't do it. I'd love to- they're so light. But it just doesn't have enough under the hood to keep up.

Fish - November 24, 2018, 8:23 am

Me personally, pro. If you travel around a lot maybe the air for its light weight but the pro is more powerful reBELLYus - November 24, 2018, 8:42 am

Save yourself the trouble and purchase a Macbook Pro. The Macbook Airs are great but the Pro is next level.

alreadygo - November 29, 2018, 2:48 pm

macbook pro is better then air

Spaark - December 1, 2018, 12:47 am

The new Air's look really nice. I've got a 2018 pro and im considering trying out the new air... if it's as seamless as the pro i may even switch.

NothingIllegal - December 3, 2018, 1:06 am

I love my mid-2015 MacBook pro. I could not function with the lesser computing power the Air. If you're going to be doing moderately intensive stuff, I would opt for the Pro.

NegroNoodle - December 4, 2018, 10:23 pm

I would like to get the pro, I am looking to upgrade for Christmas.

Xannedoutbrah - December 10, 2018, 1:28 pm

Lowest end MacBook Pro atm is same price as the new Air. The pro outperforms the new Air on all fronts except weight and battery life.

Bejota - December 22, 2018, 9:51 am

I would say MacBook Pro 15"

blackbox99 - January 9, 2019, 3:35 pm

depends on what you will use it for, pro for better performance, air for travel :). i choose pro 13

MCMichael - February 28, 2019, 2:33 pm

If you haven't the budget, rather a second hand MacBook Pro with guaranty as a new MacBook Air.

RytStend12 - March 4, 2019, 12:11 pm

Been in that same dilemma last month. But it all boils down to your needs. Heavy editing would definitely not be optimal in an Macbook Air, so always choose Pro for that. However, be careful in choosing which version to purchase. I finally opted for a Macbook Air over Macbook Pro 2018, since after weeks of research I found that people in reviews find more issues on the most recent Pro as compared to Air. Then again, I only use my Macbook for writing and a bit of research.

G3ph4z - March 4, 2019, 1:50 pm

I really like my Macbook Air (7,2) (base model i5, and 8GB ram). It's enough for coding. I will upgrade the SSD to 512GB (from 128). I will not switch to the pro in the future until the Apple doesn't fix those so many issues, and reduce the price a bit.

Donuts™ - March 8, 2019, 8:44 am

it's depends on for what you will use the Mac. For working like graphics, video editing coding etc... the pro is good choice but on other hand for web browsing air is enough.

If your financial situation is not bad then try the pro. Apple's computers are good.

Spin0za - March 8, 2019, 5:29 pm

Warning you'll cant spoof Mac address, and install Linux or other than Windows via Bootcamp, with the last Macbooks with T2 Security chip.
