

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Whats a good online programming class?

KingSo - November 11, 2018, 10:23 am

I have money and I want to get the best programming class online. Recommend me the best websites where I know my money will worth it.

voidshifter666 - November 11, 2018, 10:26 am

Depends on what you wanna learn. I would suggest start with Python. Cold Steele has a really good Python course on Udemy (warez disallowed).

KingSo - November 11, 2018, 10:28 am

(Nov 11, 2018 11:26 AM)voidshifter666 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Depends on what you wanna learn. I would suggest start with Python. Cold Steele has a really good Python course on Udemy (warez disallowed) (warez disallowed).

I wanted to learn swift but I will start with python then.

voidshifter666 - November 11, 2018, 10:29 am

(Nov 11, 2018 11:28 AM)KingSo Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I wanted to learn swift but I will start with python then. Some people have different opinions. You can start with swift too. But Python is easier to grasp for a beginner, and really useful. And Colt is an excellent teacher.

KingSo - November 11, 2018, 10:29 am

(Nov 11, 2018 11:27 AM)Fictional Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Learning programming is free, you don't need to buy anything.

I like to be taught things at time and programming is very difficult IMHO

(Nov 11, 2018 11:29 AM)voidshifter666 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Some people have different opinions. You can start with swift too. But Python is easier to grasp for a beginner, and really useful. And Colt is an excellent teacher.

alright will check it out spatial1 - November 16, 2018, 8:51 am

I would suggest codecademy. There are many pro course, plans available and it's only, $20 a month.

SIM-3696603 - November 18, 2018, 1:44 am

I highly recommend Harvard's free, online CS50 "Intro to CS" course for anyone new to programming. The professor is incredibly charismatic and extremely good at making the complicated easy to understand. I can't recommend it enough.

Be warned though, there are 10-20 hours of challenging homework a week(remember, this is Harvard).

m4ll0c - November 18, 2018, 5:41 am

Thanks for Yous post, I have a similar question, I will search more about this!