I've been seeing a lot of these sales threads lately, and I have to wonder.

With the influx of codes being redeemed wouldn't Google realize something isn't right?
Has anyone who has purchased heard about their order being sent out?

Well, it's from the spotify family free home mini offer.

Okay, but clearly these are social engineered. Will the products sold under these codes be flagged?

Hmm.. maybe our data is worth more than a Home mini to Google?

Possibly, they are also an extremely wealthy company so perhaps they're not noticing yet.

As far as I'm aware most of the codes are from legitimate Spotify accounts so in theory Google doesn't think anything is wrong. Unless spotify is closing accounts, Google has no reason to not honor their codes.
