

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Do you feel a connection to your favorite musician?

Hero - November 16, 2018, 11:37 am

Hey Hackforums,

it might sound weird, but im still not over the fact that X is dead. I know he wasn't the best person on earth but i just can't get over his death. Whenever i hear his music my heart aches. Nothing makes me more sad than seeing the images in my head of him sitting dead in his BMW.

Do you know that feeling? Do you feel the same?

How to you cope with the pain?

Dope - November 16, 2018, 12:13 pm

It feels weird... When anybody who I knew dies. It's like you can't get a sequel which makes me feel bad.

I had (and still have) the same thing with Peep. I just can't get over it. Bless their souls, rip.

flavoral - November 16, 2018, 12:16 pm

I have a connection with an artist's music like Swedish House Mafia's music. However, i can't have a connection with the artist himself cuz we don't know everything about the artist real life.

CueBasE - November 16, 2018, 12:40 pm

Got bless the dead but X was not a musician and calling him an artist is a slight overstatement in my opinion.

scam. - November 16, 2018, 7:06 pm

(Nov 16, 2018 01:40 PM)CueBasE Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Got bless the dead but X was not a musician and calling him an artist is a slight overstatement in my opinion.

I never actually thought about that fact. Technically he isn't a musician. To my knowledge at least. Then again the voice is an instrument. Not that he was an amazing singer or anything but I think his success earned him the title as a vocalist.

However I would consider him an artist. One with a lot of artistic integrity? Questionable. He didn't really innovate much he just kinda copied. In the end he is still an artist.

Gay - November 16, 2018, 7:12 pm

X isn't a musician. He's a normal guy, that you got to understand through his voice.

You never knew him personally? But that's the way death goes. Connections get broken. And once you see it for what it is, you can be glad that it happened, and realize that it's history and nothing can be changed. I personally wouldn't cry if my favorite artist died, but I would understand what they felt before they did, which is what matters more

CueBasE - November 16, 2018, 8:03 pm

(Nov 16, 2018 08:06 PM)mywifeleftme63 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I never actually thought about that fact. Technically he isn't a musician. To my knowledge at least. Then again the voice is an instrument. Not that he was an amazing singer or anything but I think his success earned him the title as a vocalist.

However I would consider him an artist. One with a lot of artistic integrity? Questionable. He didn't really innovate much he just kinda copied. In the end he is still an artist.

If I buy a coloring book and fill it in, that doesn't make me an artist.
If you sing karaoke at the bar, it doesn't make you a singer.

Maybe I'm bias because I hate 90% of today's rappers.

To each their own I guess.

scam. - November 16, 2018, 8:22 pm

(Nov 16, 2018 09:03 PM)CueBasE Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) If I buy a coloring book and fill it in, that doesn't make me an artist.

If you sing karaoke at the bar, it doesn't make you a singer.

Maybe I'm bias because I hate 90% of today's rappers.

To each their own I guess.

Well I mean he did write songs

ririki - November 16, 2018, 9:20 pm

Actually not really, usually just reading/listening the texts and thinking about it.

boyfromhouston - November 19, 2018, 8:51 am

(Nov 16, 2018 08:12 PM)FastBets Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) X isn't a musician. He's a normal guy, that you got to understand through his voice.

X was definitely a musician.

sound - April 13, 2019, 11:08 am not neccessarily. I mainly just enjoy the music.