Description

This little guy (Kream) saw me offering BTC for AGC and PMed me... The rest of the history on the screenshots.

It was my first day on HF and I rushed on trying to make my first deal.

Big mistake. ?

This guy obviously is not replying me anymore my PMs or Skype...

I didn't even made a contract so I'm making this just to warn the community and maybe save some other newbie like me from this idiot.

Screenshots shows it all but if anyone have questions I can answer I guess....

I still believe this forum is a great opportunity for business. I'll just be wiser now. See you on the marketplace ?

Oh, btw. My user was Medicardia till yesterday. I decided start using my usual nick name.

PS: Is not the first time this guy gets a dispute. I know I didn't made a contract but please consider closing him for good to prevent other newbies make the same mistake.

Proof

WOW what can i say apart from always do deals with a contract in order not to get scammed, and if you do you can dispute the person.

unfortunately this is invalid without a contract. contracts are required for all currency exchanges so you're putting yourself at risk too. Take some time to read the rules before future dealings

I know.

I did it the wrong way, but I still want to warn the community and maybe help others avoid the scam either with the name of the guy or my experience.

Seems he is online this minute but too busy staring at his own profile.
