Bluffer - November 16, 2018, 11:25 pm

What the title says.

Why or why not ?

Post your responses below. Thanks in advance for the bytes. ?

scam. - November 16, 2018, 11:26 pm

Yes there is no downside.

Even if you die it's onstant and painless so you wouldn't know

Bluffer - November 16, 2018, 11:27 pm

Fucked the title up, fixed it now.

Post why or why not.

a323109 - November 16, 2018, 11:27 pm

Xcuse me but what does it mean "if yo"?

myplatesarefat - November 16, 2018, 11:28 pm

no. btw if you had that money life would make no sense for you.

Men are driven by sex. To get sex you need to interest women. To interest them you need things like monetary success to show them you are amitious and likely her best possible option.

Most men who create companies and chase money etc do it to be appreciated by women and society.

Once you have that you won't know what to chase.

Lavish Living - November 16, 2018, 11:30 pm

Fuck it. I'd do it. As long as if I die, no one knows the reason. Lol

I know. I am behind a firewall that slow down whole internet.

Answer: i get it! 50% probability to become rich or die. Yes

As for the why or why not question; i an 52 i did almost anything on my live i have no real need to live more.

I dunno dying for the change of 100b isn't that bad of a reason to go

I believe it would be considered suicide though, and that's just unacceptable

TB12 - November 16, 2018, 11:39 pm

Hell yeah I would, my life is worthless

• Enlil Wolf • - November 16, 2018, 11:40 pm

Greetings and a very interesting scenario.

It's very interesting because I can see almost 90% of the people responding to go with the $100B money.

I'd choose my existing life over $100B worth of money with a 50% chance to die instantly. It's not worth it.

Regards.

Wave Digital - November 16, 2018, 11:40 pm

Depends on the type of death. Painless ?

(Nov 17, 2018 12:38 AM)Lavish Living Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I believe it would be considered suicide though, and that's just unacceptable

Why? No one asked my if I want to be so conscious that I have more questions than answers?

Why is it unacceptable?

Well, it's one's own choice to live but I believe what he meant by that was, people would look down on someone who committed suicide.

Or would it be murder considering someone put you up to it

OP failed to mention, where the $100B is coming from. So yea, it could also be classified as murder more so than suicide. Good eyes sir.

deltaone - November 16, 2018, 11:49 pm

i volunteered dying multiple times even for 0$ but i was always unlucky enough to stay alive, life doesnt let me die. i would pay someone to kill me not to mention to die for money? what are we waiting for, where do i sign up op?

SIM-3257834 - November 16, 2018, 11:58 pm

I'd do it for free, my only terms is I want my body to explode into a million pieces.

bananachocobo - November 17, 2018, 12:00 am

Without that money, I'd die anyway. So where do I sign up for it? ?

The way the title is stated, it makes it seem optional. Like you flip a coin and if it lands on heads you die if it's tails u win da money. Lol

I pictured it as some shady old man sitting at a bus stop goin "hey kid. wanna gamble your life" kinda deal

Strayaa - November 17, 2018, 12:32 am

I would but then whats the point of even living after...

If you're rich you have nothing left in life to try accomplish, you'll become depressed and bored. Not to mention that amount of money would probably ruin the economy and be worthless anyway lol

Cød3ing - November 17, 2018, 1:38 am

The potential chance of being born is about 1 in 400 trillion, why risk such irreplaceable rarity for some human construct ("money")?

pms - November 17, 2018, 2:18 am

To be honest, i would not even dare to do this, id be way to scared.

SIM-403479 - November 17, 2018, 2:41 am

For the chance at this. Probably, yeah.

I'm pretty lucky.

Ha Haaa - November 17, 2018, 2:45 am

Nah I wouldnt do it. Dont wanna die just yet

Dope - November 17, 2018, 3:14 am

Nah I wouldn't. Maybe in a few years or when I'll be poor and very desperate.. that's when I'd take the chance. But right now nope. Definitely not.

Winds - November 17, 2018, 3:15 am

Nah, I'll live a normal life instead of taking a chance. Nice questions though.

lizzy - November 17, 2018, 3:18 am

If I was born in some African tribe deep down in forest / desert , if I was poor, sick, hungry - I probably would.

grindz - November 17, 2018, 4:02 am nah.

i am not a risk taker and never will be no money can value to a life if that makes sense
i'd rather live how i am now

Spaark - December 9, 2018, 11:27 pm

I mean, death is bad, but trying to explain that shit to the tax office would truly be something else.

Octavia - December 9, 2018, 11:57 pm

Without a second thought. Crazy how money can change your life enough you'd die for it.

hash - December 10, 2018, 4:51 am

Mmmm probably yes, if you die instantly it doesn't really matter.

Sixen+ - December 10, 2018, 5:02 am

I have notoriously bad luck with coin flips. I'd still do it.

Nima304 - December 10, 2018, 5:02 am

It's a win-win, so why not?

Richard Bach - December 10, 2018, 5:15 am

I would probably do it, 100,000,000 for a 50% death

Polymath - December 10, 2018, 5:18 am

For 100 Billion with a chance of death? No it would hardly make a difference if I even had that much money to changing the world, I would rather live. I am not materialistic where I would worship money, if it was over 1 Trillion then yes I would definitely take that 50/50 chance and if it was 100 Trillion I would settle with 40/60 chance. I would use it to change society, how things run and invest in creating a mass political movement to take over a country's government and change policies and slowly implement dictatorial policies whilst maintaining healthy good relationships with all the people. I would also expand on my investments in energy, infrastructure, oil and big resources, anything that would expand my power and influence in the world. Invest heavily in defense, missiles and robotics. Of course even 1 trillion would not be enough to carry out all this but with smart investments it can grow massively.

Zexi - December 10, 2018, 5:25 am

In a heartbeat. As long as the death is instant/painless.

wanderer100 - December 10, 2018, 6:08 am

Death or become a trillionaire

Sounds like a win win to me lol

My man.

Bossk - December 10, 2018, 7:48 am

I would do it as long as I'm not aware of the result if I get to die

Tsach3vTP - December 10, 2018, 7:54 am imagine this post was made by God (he doesnt exist btw) and all people who said yes are now either dead or a 100billion $ richer.

Yin Yang - December 10, 2018, 7:56 am

Nah I'm good f that homie

Roytoy - December 10, 2018, 12:36 pm

Not really. I think my life is worth more than that alnoise - December 10, 2018, 12:37 pm

yeah i dont care enough about my life to not take that chance.

i think id take the chance it wont hurt so why not <3

the money is best option <3

Goku - December 10, 2018, 12:45 pm

Like almost everyone else on this thread. Yes ?

fordtough1972 - December 10, 2018, 12:52 pm

Hell yeah. Win win scenario bc i want to die or be rich so...

mydogismissing - December 10, 2018, 2:58 pm

yes. get rich or die trying lol fuck it

James Burnham - December 10, 2018, 3:05 pm

I would take it twice to make sure.

lucky. - December 10, 2018, 3:11 pm

Make it 60% chance and you've got a deal.

???????????Michael Kors - December 10, 2018, 5:03 pm

I definitely wouldn't risk my life over money.

Ravioli - December 10, 2018, 5:35 pm

No, life is invaluable. Money is a concept made by us.

edit: the amount of people that said yes is genuinely concerning. :/

Cyber - December 10, 2018, 5:39 pm

If you knew for a fact that the odds were set to 50:50 then you would have no choice but to do it. Human instinct would kick in and you'd do it, I promise.

Yup I agree, I would have to pass on this offer after thinking about it for a bit longer then most people when commenting "YES" straight away.

Ofcourse, I want to be fairly rich & live a comfortable life for a nice amount of the time that I have on this earth & being able to do the things that I want to do.

However, this amount of money is way to crazy, everyone should learn to understand that "Mo money Mo problems" is a real thing.

With $100,000,000,000 you will have a lot of bullshit hindering you all the time in life.

This is what happened to people who won extremely small amounts of money in regards to the quote on this thread:

Now imagine what can happen when you "win" this much money out of nowhere...

Yes. People would do this for a lot less.

TCP - December 10, 2018, 6:34 pm

It's a win/win situation...or maybe not? With so many money it would become dangerous to live, I would probably need bodyguards or something

James Burnham - December 10, 2018, 6:41 pm

If you are silent about your money, nobody will know. If you were to have that amount in cryptos and a good sense of anonymity you would live with no danger.

Amp - December 10, 2018, 6:53 pm

I wouldn't. Money isn't the biggest issue in life.

Check The Name - December 10, 2018, 8:10 pm

You should have put a poll up...I probably would, but not too sure lol.

Shockley - December 10, 2018, 8:11 pm

If you take the chance you are a bleak idiot who deserves to die

Melly the Menace - December 10, 2018, 8:12 pm

I think that's good enough odds, why not

PerfectStorm - December 10, 2018, 8:13 pm

Hmm I dont think I would do it but possibly

0xB9 - December 10, 2018, 8:14 pm

I'm gonna have to say no... not worth a coin flip for my life.

Mix - December 10, 2018, 10:11 pm

wouldnt take the chance there is more to life than money

Cara Delevingne - December 10, 2018, 10:27 pm

If I was to do this, I'd have to have something ready so my death looked real and not "He died because he wanted to be rich" How'd that be explained to family and friends is beyond me.

Acentity - December 30, 2018, 7:12 am

Yes, I'm not afraid to die, nor am I suicidal. It's imminent.

Uploader.sx - December 30, 2018, 7:30 am

Fuck yeah I would do it.

Be optimistic, there's a 50% chance you will live.
