Thread: Add Balance to Bytes History

I think it would be helpful to us gamblers if we could see our balance in our Bytes history. For each entry it would show what your Bytes balance was at that time. Since Omni has said he won't be adding session stats, this would be a simple way for us to track our sessions on our own.

Not necessary, but I think it's a small change that people will utilize.

I usually just open a tab at: <https://hackforums.net/blackjack.php?action=stats>

And then you can compare before and after your "session."

Doubt it will happen as they'll have to start storing all bytes balances on every transaction in the DB.

Not to mention your balance will be altered when your posts get junked/deleted and those changes currently don't get logged in bytes history. If the balances are stored in the DB and your posts get junked it will mess them up.

xadamxk has plans to introduce "profit/loss" stats for people who want to play games manually.

Right now they are only available when it's played by his bots.

Right now they are only available when it's played by his bots. I try to remain script-free on HF. I see your point though. Closing this. I didn't even think about how much data would have to be stored.
