Description

OK so after being scammed for $2,000 by another user i was/am desperate to make any kind of money. So he hit me up my PMs and said hey i got a method that will make us quick cash. He provided video proof of his method and links to other users he performed the method with. I was gullible enough to believe his profile was legit. At least more legit than the one who scammed me before. So after pulling a shit ton of strings i got the $100 capital. He said it would be a few hours but it wasnt until later that night when i asked for my BTC back he said he'd already found a buyer for my capital and thats the last i heard from him. So i contacted his other people who have done deals with him and they confirmed my suspicions.

Proof

The moment he went offline

Me begging like a fool for someone who probably isnt coming back.

Add this here <https://hackforums.net/disputedb.php> and also why don't you deal with a trusted middleman?

Rip to your money, you can always make a dispute if you had a contract made.

i have,but whats the point if he's not online

Velma - November 19, 2018, 11:45 am

if he appears online i am sure the admins will be on his case until he gives a reason why he did this.

That's why you always use a middleman.

PerfectStorm - November 19, 2018, 7:08 pm

Props for using a contract but sorry for your loss.

the deal couldnt be completed without my capital so it had to go straight to him to perform the service
