When buying an award from another user, will the description always become like this:

Code USERNAME bestows the AWARD-NAME award upon you on DATETIME

Yep just so it reminds you that you have not earned the award, you bought it. Lol

Yeah but why the Username of the person you've bought it from?

The previous owner could have bought the award aswell.

A text saying "This AWARDNAME Award have been purchased on DATE" or something similar would be better

I think that the old description should remain alongside the new description, the reason being is that soon enough, most awards will lose their "personality".

What I suggest is that a new line with the old description is included in the "Myawards.php" page.

Xerotic has already mentioned he's going to have an award history page so you can see who's held each award and where it originated.

This is how we decided to do it. It's not up for debate.
