So I was talking to a friend last night, and we was sat there reminiscing about what we use to get up to as kids, sat in the playground at school.

Then we starts to remember about all the cool games that was once out there for us...

Do any of you actually remember the Pokemon trading card game?

Or tamigoches?

Maybe even pogs?

I just want to see how many people on here can remember any games from their childhood that they can remember playing?

See I played the Pokemon game in the game boy, but I only really liked the original, the rest of them just ruined the whole thing in general, but then that's just my personal opinion, I'm sure others out there would disagree

Yeah I think quite a lot of us out there ending up spending/wasting a lot of money on quite a few trends that was out there. See I didn't mind watching yugioh but that's as far as it really got with me, it's probably just me showing my age LOL
