Thread: Making Money On Android?

Gracious - November 26, 2018, 5:25 am

Anyway to make couple bucks primarily on an android phone? Im not talking about any kind of cryptos or any kind of currency that cant be transferred into my actual bank account. Im talkin paypal, and things like that.

I dont care about the time too much. I'll wait a month for $100 - $200. But preferably a quick couple bucks that could stack would be nice.

Just up for any suggestions.

There are apps that you can farm in-app coins by doing tasks such as completing surveys and trying out other apps, then converting those coins to paypal balance. I've tested one which I don't recall, but I could manage to make only 2$ maximum by farming coins only through the phone. I'd set a android emulator on my pc to farm more but got bored really fast and dropped this method.

Any app about surveys and stuff that I've tried was boring and gave me nothing or near to nothing. Maybe I'm unlucky and I've only tried shit apps

Ive tried those silly apps. Theyre garbage unless youre getting a sponsor from them.

1. Hit up craigslist free section. Get yourself free shit and sell it off for cheap on facebook pages - even a few bucks.

2. Buy stuff and resell it. Look close to end of month for US - as people need to pay bills and will sell shit off for cheap to make ends meet. Check second hand stores/garage sales.

3. Buy something and rent it out. I gave an example of this on another thread - example bouncy castles. They are cheap but you can rent them out for a 3 day weekend that in most cases would cover the cost of the entire thing.

4. Bake/Cook or invest in a few chisels and sandpaper - learn to craft goods out of wood or knives out of steel. It's actually pretty simple and basic shit for really good returns.

5. Fix computers from your home. I put an entire thread on this on HF with services to offer. Simply have them drop it off or you pick it up - then fix it, extremely easy and charge cheap. Only takes a few minutes of your time per job for good revenue.

You can also middleman websites if you can't do them yourself. Look on places like craigslist or other ad sites for people wanting something then use HF or fiverr and have them build it.

6. Middleman items. Look for people that say w or wanting or [w] and see what they want. Look around and try find it and make a margin. I saw someone the other day tryna buy an xbox one for $25 USD more than someone else selling one. Easy profit.

Most of these you can use facebook groups for your community/area too so extremely easy.

Once you get around $75 USD - use that to buy a chromebook so you have a laptop.

Those are some solid ways to get some extra money. It's bad that most of these ways can't work where I live. No one is giving away free stuff. At least it's not easy to find it cause no craigslist :(
