Thread: Selling Official Group - Influence

630 - December 1, 2018, 10:48 pm

Due to recent events I am in a position where I need to sell my group. I need it gone fast hence the bin. I am open to some negotiation. The group has 2 private subs inside of it as well.

- You cover $250 transfer
- You must be approved to own a group by Omni

Status: pending

630 - December 3, 2018, 9:49 am

Not gonna lie was hoping after 70 views I'd get at least one person interested.

Banter. - December 3, 2018, 11:37 am

Good price and a very good group! ?
a nice investment for someone right here! ?

Smexy - December 3, 2018, 11:50 am

Goodluck to the person who takes this!

Well, $250 + whatever someone ends up paying you is a lot to pay for an online group. Like, it's cool and all but I'd have to be a millionaire to consider.

?BowmanBot? - December 3, 2018, 11:54 am

I am actually debating on doing this.

If I decide that I would like to take on the venture, I'll submit my bid.

For now, I wish you the best of luck!

I'll take it off your hands for $2k let me know :-)

Cheap considering that groups usually go for 5k or more. They're used to make money, it's an investment.

How do groups make money?

reBELLYus - December 5, 2018, 12:56 pm

(Dec 5, 2018 01:52 PM)Bear Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) How do groups make money?

Buy-ins. Other than that, hard to turn a profit.

Buy-ins, hosting events(buy-ins or take percentages from events), collaborations, selling services or products under their branding.

Deany - December 6, 2018, 3:18 pm

Glws Garrett. Hope whoever buys it turns it into an anime related group. Been a long time since HF had one of those.

630 - December 8, 2018, 3:52 pm

Still in need of a buyer for this. If you've got an offer let me know.

iNviZ - December 8, 2018, 9:10 pm

That's a great price for a group and has 2 extra sub forums, almost like 3 groups. Best of luck brotha and you should be able to sell for that price easy.

Those saying groups don't make money were never around for black shades and Illuminati. If a group is led strongly and by someone with enough time and money, it can easily rule the marketplace on HF. Good luck with sales man, this is a great price for a group.

Lol I remember that shit, yeah they did. The old Marketers and Instinct did too.

Anyway, solid price. I hate to see it go but things happen. Best of luck to you brotha.

Those were profitable because of product that backed the group not groups that backed a product. That is no longer how this marketplace operates. Do you invest in fax machine companies because they once made millions?

Those were profitable because of product that backed the group not groups that backed a product. I mean if you have the right motivation and know how to drum up excitement, groups can still be profitable. Just need the right people.

Fax machines are still profitable, its why you see several in every damn office. Your last point is redundant though I understand the aim. Yeah, groups might not be $10k anymore but that doesn't mean they can't still be flipped for money.

Not really. It's a low reward investment that can easily be surpassed with simpler means.

You totally missed the point if that's your argument. Who is flipping groups for money now, let me know? Prices are going down not up the market is overfilled not underfilled.

If anyone is interested feel free to let me know. Must be Omni approved.

Realizm - February 1, 2019, 12:24 pm

Wow... wish I would have saved my money with buying Titans and purchased groups now. Not only could I buy 2 for about half the price I bought Titans, but I could own 2!... or more... Omni never let us do that before. And after watching Divined come in and waste his money I can see why. I guess this was kinda the plan to make groups worth a lot less. Now he has the new thing, Crews. I wonder if he plans on scrapping groups one day... if I were him I know I'd be trying to find the best way to do it. Whether it is to drop the price so low the owners sell them back to you, or you just simply do like before and ask for money and close any that refuse. Different circumstances, but an option nonetheless I suppose lol.

I'm not sure that I'm interested in buying just a single group though. If I were to come back, I'd come back Divined style and scoop up the majority of them. It's the only chance anyone has at making groups have any kind of decent reputation. You'd need to invest all of the money you could to buy up all of the groups, find and appoint people to lead all but 1 or 2 groups for you to manage. Then you'd be able to work collaboratively to bring the image of groups back. I tried a long time ago when they were worth saving, but too many owners with too large of egos or lack of motivation to do even just an hour of work.

Good luck with selling this, I'll keep this and the other one in mind ?

Holy fuck... 19 groups?! No wonder they're worthless... There were enough shitty owners and shitty leaders to deal with when we only had 11 or 12.

You paint a bleak picture here where the only savior to all groups on HF is your divine intervention. Not everything here is bad.

Groups and crews have been able to coexist without much tension since they were introduced.

Things are going fine under the group that I and the fellow leaders actively manage.

If none of the current groups/crews satisfy your standards, I'd encourage you to buy a group. I'm all for you getting back into the group scene.

It's double the transfer fee so not really almost the same. Total cost is $750 which is slightly over the crew price which is inevitably taking over groups.

Not usually. Used to.

These days groups go for right around $2k. And they still don't even sell at that.

There's also a lot of fake buyers, who submit bids but then chicken out.

You're wrong. I actually agree with him, he's pretty accurate. Groups feel like they're getting deprecated.

Look, from my point of view, crews pose the greatest threat to the existence of groups. It's the sheer uncertainty about what new features crews will have in the future and how they will change the market's value of groups and crews. They serve a similar purpose; an organization of members of the forum under one leader. The more crews/groups there are, the less people want to own one. But what's confusing me is that people used to always say that if groups ever fell below $2k that Omni had promised to buy them back, is that not the case anymore or something?

Realizm - April 18, 2019, 6:36 pm

Wow, still no buyers at this price. Have you tried posting this in the marketplace? There hasn't been many groups doing enough out reach to make people have a reason to visit this section or even be aware of groups. You might have more luck in a section that gets a lot more views.
