Opening my own habbo retro has always been on my to do list ever since i was a little boy, and now i've managed to open one. Habcon was created by me and my friend called Fiskfot and we are currently looking for an active player base. We know players dont come easy, thats why we take advertisement very serious and decide to advertise on here. We do currently look for staff, such as event managers, experts, mods etc and we would love to see you online on Habcon!

It's a game yes, you can gamble, build rooms, chat etc. You should try it out :)

Argh, I had a retro project practically up and running with so many good ideas. Then I lost motivation and took a "break", now I forgot everything I learned and cba to start over again.

I might get on some day.

Old school retro habbo... How great :D I did enjoy my time playing it, for 10 years ago. Nice to see shit's still running, at least on private servers.
