Looks legit sorry for your loss. But unfortunately, you need a contract for a valid dispute.

Should've made a contract, needed to fulfill an order on ebay and received a bunch of dud codes. I should've made a contract sadly he was not on at the time I needed these thought I could trust him looking through his previous deals and such and apparently i was wrong

Yeah I understand. I have gotten shitty codes of those autobuy sellers before too. Usually if they are decent they will replace them though.

Feels bad for your lose...as a seller you always have to check before selling the mini code product.

O.P is known for telling every single seller that codes don't work so he can get extras.

Just look at his replies on the thread and look at his replies on other sellers thread. Everyone he bought from he's tried to get extras out of them. I'll refund you as it's pointless to drag this on but you honestly don't deserve the refund. How many codes have you scammed out of sellers so far? Like 100+? lol. Feel free to send me your btc address and i'll refund but you 100% don't deserve one. You're pathetic.

LOOL what a broke boy. You finesse people out of codes then you make a deal dispute on them saying they don't work.

Haven't scammed codes out of no one, I offered to show you proof and you didn't even reply. The only pathetic person here is you for scamming for $24.

Didn't finesse anyone out of codes, reported the problem right away wasn't even sent the right amount of codes and only one worked.

I'm not going to argue back and fourth with you. I offered a refund (even though you don't deserve one) . Do you want it or not?

Likewise, I'd like the refund I've sent you a message with my BTC Addy.
