Thread: Electricity down, laptop on 8% battery, phone on 17% and almost out of 3G on phone..

Won't have electircity for the whole fucking day (no warning beforehand). Lesson learned, always charge your phone/laptop before you go to bed. And always have a fully charged portable battery charger. This will be my last memo for the day.

I wish you all a good life, may you not suffer the same fate as I am currently suffering.

duuuude, thats sucks, this is why i never get too attached to any of my technology, incase something like this happens. I remember the days of the dial tone, and having to have it all plugged it to use it, suppose, i just havent really come to sense of the future too much, would rather do things old school :) LOL

Go for a long walk to an area that has electricity, go to Starbucks, charge devices and have a coffee, profit.

Leaving your phone inside a hot engine bay actually gives you up to 20% of a energy transfer.

Kaleb - December 14, 2018, 3:45 am

You'll be okay bro. There's places you could go to charge your phone and laptop too.
