Thread: How is Pronouncer UID=3396018 Allowed to Go Closing Down Deal Disputes Against Him?

Techius - December 15, 2018, 6:09 pm

I see an unfair abuse of power by Pronouncer UID=3396018 who has closed my deal dispute against him. <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5846049>

There has been no resolution. It is still ongoing, yet the thread was closed.

He just randomly posted on my thread "I'll get this closed" and lo and behold, replies are disabled.

This is a massive abuse of power. It is used to silence dissent. This is because Pronouncer and his cronies from all the groups he's apart of coordinate to on the marketplace. Their tactics are questionable.

Since I've been scammed by him, my thread closed by him, what chance of resolution do I have?

This is no longer a deal dispute. This is an abuse of power. Why can't I get all deal disputes against me closed? There's an unfair application of the rules.

What's the reasoning for closing this? There's been no resolution. I'm still owed money from Pronouncer.

I figure you should be able to rationalize why the thread was closed yourself; one big stupor.. Give up the shenanigans, I don't think you are getting your money back.

Members can only close their own threads (and only if they are upgraded) and not the threads of other members. Your thread may have been mistakenly closed by a Staff/Admin.

I closed the thread for one simple reason. You made a deal dispute without attaching a Contract to it.
