Thread: Opened a new shoppy store

Bob White - December 17, 2018, 9:25 am

Opened a new shoppy store, done $445 in sales in less than a 24 hour period, I have high hopes!

It's a nice little side project for one of my employees to handle once it takes off.

Somehow I think you're doing well enough without my niche, but I did say my next niche was dog related!

That's great! Wish I could get mentoring off Squalo but $1000 up front to a random guy on the net is a lot :(

Well, if your signature is true, a little over a week and you should be setup. Go from making pennies to stacks.

My first store Squalo helped me build averaged 5k a day in sales. Like I said, worth every penny.

How is shoppy compared to Shopify?

I've had good success with Shopify but I'd like to launch a new store and that dashboard looks clean Shopify is just prettier. Shoppy is not lol. I am lucky I have a niche I can drive people directly to product pages without facebook ads or anything.

Shoppy is for like selling cracked accounts and stuff similar to that. That's not something I use it for however.

Ah I see, it's like a selly alternative

That's insane you drive sales without ads, facebook ads + instagram influencers vacuum up so much money my margins come down to like ~22% profit

Yeah it's nuts. I like to stick to one area of advertisement, Squalo taught me that, stick to what works and ramp it up.

It's kind of drop shipping, and also kind of stuff I have on hand from bulk ordering.

Why don't you use Shoppify?

Bob White - December 22, 2018, 10:45 am

Many reasons I won't go into on a public forum. ?

This is just a side project for me, I dominated shopify already with 150k a month in sales, the two are unrelated.

I'd love to go into eCommerce personally. Don't even know where to start. Anyway, nice stats and keep it up.
