Thread: Stuck on a Train for Hours, Need a Smoke

Effexion - December 27, 2018, 7:32 am

Travelling between Glasgow and Preston and made the school boy error of buying a coffee from Starbucks at the station. It's normally bad enough but now I need nicotine so much it's unreal and to top it off, we forgot both our vapes. How do you guys cope in this situation?

If you have some gum nearby, i'd recommend chewing a shit ton of gum while binge-watching a TV show.

No gum and no concentration. The plan was to continue with my PHP course but there's no chance of being able to concentrate on that lol.

It's like a 2 hour ride or something. You can survive this, I'm sure.

~when you smoke after the train ride be sure not to faint~

Holy shit you've only been on for an hour. You're a fukin locomotive ;)

I've been in the same spot though, absolutely horrible.

moneybagg - December 27, 2018, 7:45 am

Bum a smoke. Most smokers know what it's like to be in that situation.

Pyro - December 27, 2018, 7:45 am

I've used to smoke in buses, trains, i dont really care

Wow, man. You're an absolute MENTALIST. Some crazy ass mo' fo' that just don't give a fuck.

It's impossible to get away with that on Virgin trains and no chance am I risking getting the whole family kicked off.

Time to get some pennies in the back pocket and buy or a bum a cig.

As a vape user, I NEVER leave without it.

My minimal EDC is wallet, keys, phone, vape and e-juice.

Get a sub $100 kit, some are really good for the price and it's always great to have multiple vapes. I always have one at my desk, one near my bed and one in my car.

I buy 120ml ejuices and split them in 30ml bottles for all my vapes.

Geass - December 27, 2018, 8:22 am

Go on the top of the train like ninja, take a smoke, and get back in, or else good chance to cut smoking.

LoudScreen - December 27, 2018, 8:29 am

Chew something spicy or gross like garlic. It will make you forget about smoking for a while.

Lemon-Haze - December 27, 2018, 8:31 am gotta get one of those small pod vapes that fit easily in ur pocket, then you never gotta worry about missing your nicotine haha thats not the point lol, u can always open the window, get your head out and get few inhales without anyone noticing

Effexion - December 27, 2018, 11:14 am

Might come back here once I have 100 Bytes. Is this on-going?

pms - December 27, 2018, 12:04 pm

Damn, bet that situation isnt the best to be in, try to grab some snacks if you got some.

Nibba go in the in WC and light that shit up.

Deany - December 27, 2018, 12:23 pm

Least you got internet on that train

Mix - December 27, 2018, 3:16 pm

I would say have a vape but most smokers dont vape, But I have been there as i went to london on train and it was a 3 hour train delayed as well, and fuckkk me I never wanted a smoke so much regretted getting on it instantly.

This may deter you, but in all honesty it helps a lot in a pinch. Generally if I foresee an extended amount of time where I'll be without a cigarette, I'll bring along a can of chew for emergencies such as this. Nic-fits and I do not get along. I get sweaty and incredibly irritable.
