Thread: Bytes Symbol ?

Omniscient - December 29, 2018, 11:13 am

I'm experimenting with adding the Greek letter beta "β" for a symbol for bytes similar to a $.

I have it so that if you type "X$bytesX" (remove the X's) it will replace with the symbol. The filter will only work if the term is a single word. $bytes100 will not work.

β <-- replacement

Feel free to use this thread to test.

Also, the filter does work in thread titles.

Thank you.

Moon - December 29, 2018, 11:15 am

So if I type bytes it will turn into the symbole

Add a $ before the word bytes.

iNuke - December 29, 2018, 11:17 am

Would like to try this with 2,500 ?

Edit: it works, awesome :)

Moon - December 29, 2018, 11:17 am

So I have to type β

I like this idea

reBELLYus - December 29, 2018, 11:18 am

This is a great addition. I like the symbol next to our byte count too.

Nice work. ?

webdev77 - December 29, 2018, 11:22 am

This should work ?

This should not: $bytes10k

Interesting feature. Real question is will people learn to put the symbol in front where it belongs.
