

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Buying a macbook

Truth3356 - January 3, 2019, 5:46 pm

When buying a macbook (Pro or Air) , do I need a brand new one for it to last me for a while , or could i buy one off craigslist or something like that?

Disease - January 3, 2019, 5:59 pm

(Jan 3, 2019 06:46 PM)Truth3356 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) When buying a macbook (Pro or Air) , do I need a brand new one for it to last me for a while , or could i buy one off craigslist or something like that?

Brand new is obviously the safest option. You know what you're getting. It'll come with a limited warranty out of the box, covering your purchase for the first year. But that's not to say you shouldn't be pre-owned. Just know what you're buying, and make sure it's the right price. Don't pay close to retail for an eight year old MBP, for example.

Truth3356 - January 3, 2019, 8:39 pm

(Jan 3, 2019 06:59 PM)Disease Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Brand new is obviously the safest option. You know what you're getting. It'll come with a limited warranty out of the box, covering your purchase for the first year. But that's not to say you shouldn't be pre-owned. Just know what you're buying, and make sure it's the right price. Don't pay close to retail for an eight year old MBP, for example.

Well yeah obviously, thank you for the advice

reBELLYus - January 3, 2019, 8:47 pm

Go for a Macbook Pro - you will love it.