Will you invite him to the Crew?

Guardians - January 4, 2019, 8:46 pm

Name: Dev

Age: 20

Location: New York City

Why are you an asset?

I'll send you my resume. I mean strict business. :^)

I am willing to share knowledge to mutually benefit members of the crew, to which I find to be very useful.

Additionally, I have the devotion to aid the crew in any way I am able, with an emphasis on providing quality > quantity.

What are your primary skills?

- Financial literacy, college-educated, non-skid, and the ability to participate in a civilized conversation.
- Decent with graphic design and video editing.
- Professional Etiquette and large business network (in-person).
- Blockchain, distributed ledger, tokenization lover (e.g. cryptocurrency & digital assets).

I see the financial world revolutionizing around new technologies and that's where I focus my professional career on.

Why should you be accepted into Terror?

I'll send you a more formal reason via PM if you are interested in me. I don't like to disclose too much of my personal information for public view.

What is one of your greatest accomplishments?

- To be Interning at the largest and most prestigious Big Four Accounting firms in the US, Deloitte.
- Previously working at the largest custodian bank in the world, State Street, related to digital assets and blockchain employment.
- Successfully passing the first part of the Actuary Exam (Exam P), one of the most difficult standardized tests available for actuaries.

What is your favorite game(s)?

In order

League of Legends, Battlerite, Runescape, & CSGO

Have you participated in any tournaments? Think LAN.

Yes, LoL on my college campus once with friends for shits and giggles.

I'm quite competitive and could easily reach diamond+ again if I tried.

Last but not least, have you been a Terror since the public school era?

I don't care if they respect me so long as they fear me.

• Enlil Wolf • - January 4, 2019, 9:07 pm

This Crew and the user-bar is just looking amazing. Kudos to whoever designed it.

As for the crew itself, it looks like it will be an amazing place to be a part of.

Good Luck to everyone applying and I wish you the Best of Luck.

Regards, Wolf ?

Why are you an asset? Why am I an asset? I have been apart of this Forum for almost 3 years now, so this is not my first time joining a group. I have contributed to this Forum in the past a long time ago by giving back to some members, greeting new users, etc. I tend to provide the best information to topics that pertain to gaming, cryptocurrency, and any type of financial topics, even though, yes, I still pretty young, I have self taught myself many of the skills that I know today.

What are your primary skills?

I don't really have that many outstanding skills unlike some of the members that will be applying for this group in the coming future. But I would say that I am rather good at crypto, basic photoshop knowledge, video editing, and coding, even though it has been about a year since I have last done anything with programming or coding, I am a pretty quick learner, I taught myself most of the material that I used to know, barely had any video help, it was mostly trial and error for me.

Why should you be accepted into Terror?

I think that being accepted into Terror would be exceptionally beneficial for me because not only can I inform others with the information I already know about certain topics surrounding crypto etc... Being accepted would also give me the chance to not only converse and share my knowledge with the rest of the group, but to be educated on material that I do not know anything about.

What is one of your greatest accomplishments?

I would say probably working on Ruby on Rails, my I.T teacher had me work at my own pace, and didn't even require me to do any work in his class other than work on Ruby on Rails, but then again, this was about 2-4 years ago, back when i was a freshman in High School, I would definitely need to teach myself again about how to work in that field. Probably just helping people in general, I helped a couple of my friends in 2018 that had no knowledge in building a PC, same as for me, when I first built my PC, which was in 2018, I had no video, I could have, but I decided I would learn myself, and I built my first PC successfully, and I built 5 other of my friends' PC's as well. It's not a hard thing, yea I know, but for me that was an accomplishment because I didn't really become financially stable up until now, I had a multitude of bills to pay. Yes, I am a 17 year old who pays for his car, insurance and phone bill.

What is your favorite game(s)?

Rainbow 6, Black Ops 4, Forza Horizon 4, Rust, Fortnite, and some other games.

Have you participated in any tournaments? Think LAN.

Nope, not any that I can recall.

Last but not least, have you been a Terror since the public school era?No. I am a respected citizen of the United States :)

Haven't been apart of a group in a while because I never really had time, but I felt like this was the perfect group. I used to be apart of "The Order" and "Torque"

Things are going well for me, working on quite a few projects right now. One of which I've joined up on a team developing and launching a DEX, and hope to introduce HF to the DEX in the upcoming months once public testing begins.

Why are you an asset?

Background knowledge in JavaScript, Java, C++ & Python Languages, in terms of creating game code / external / internal read write process / mod development.

What are your primary skills?

Strong Mathematical aptitude, with quick problem solving skills, and a born leader. I tend to be a friendly person as well.

Why should you be accepted into Terror?

That is for you to decide.

What is one of your greatest accomplishments?

Self taught for the biggest portion of my life, going through self directed learning in high-school making me driven and determined to complete tasks at hand and on time. I pride myself on these values because normally you are being taught not teaching yourself.

What is your favorite game(s)?

This list is irrelevant to me because I play tons of game and am constantly switching,

Why are you an asset?

I have great knowledge in finance and accounting (and still learning!), also I have experience in two startups: one discontinued ICO, and a current B2B B2C app in progress. I can be an asset in two ways: Terror members benefit from my knowledge or Terror members can help me with startups that can lead to collaborations and jobs.

What are your primary skills?

Top skills: Accounting (especially internal) and general corporate finance, Stock trading (not the I watch youtube stock trading, but the I come from a stock trading family way). Business idea development. Social skills. Sales. INTERNATIONAL CONNECTIONS, yes I got'em, and they go far, really far.

Other skills that I have knowledge in but there is little talent involved: Marketing, website coding, Nutrition

Why should you be accepted into Terror?

For my business purposes I need a forum like HF to help and get helped. But HF community in general is not tight enough for me to rely on. I need a tight community that I can trust that has all the talents I need. Also I like helping people and getting experience by doing so.

What is one of your greatest accomplishments?

Investing big into the ICON ICO. And not just hodling it.

What is your favorite game(s)?

Currently playing: Zen Pinball, and replaying old Jak series on my ps2. Besides that I just like to download random ps4 games and try them out on my pwned ps4.

Favourite games I have played in the past: Heavy Rain, Modern Warfare series (campaign), Fortix 2. Undertale

Have you participated in any tournaments? Think LAN.

I'd like to give a warm welcome to our new leader who will be replacing KORBL - Flaws.
Very happy to be onboard with Terror, looking forward to presenting some of the ideas we've already come up with to the community!

Any chance you can re-think about the being member for 90+ days period
Being member for less time doesn't mean you can't be a HQ user..

Hi StoqnKolev,

While a 90+ day grace period does not dictate whether one is an HQ user or not, it is a requirement that we have put into place. We are, however, willing to budge on this rule granted the member is dedicated to the forum and has made/makes clear contributes to the community.

Best wishes.

Why are you an asset?

I consider myself very dedicated, I think being in a group will give me the chance to become more involved and possibly make new friends that may last years. I'm also ready to help around with typing out whatever, teaching whatever, helping with whatever. I'm sure I'll be a great asset as I'm always there when you need me, very active.

What are your primary skills?

I'm a great salesman. A great marketer. A great speaker. A great presenter. I'm certain carrying your username will only show off this group as one of the best as I'll be sure not to misrepresent it.

Why should you be accepted into Terror?

It'd be an honor to carry your userbar, Terror. Sounds sick to be honest. Not just that, though. It only has some of the friendliest members I've seen on the forums. I think it's a great way to get closer to you guys.

What is one of your greatest accomplishments?

Made more money than my family did for 3 months in a row. Paid off my own tuition at 15. Bought my mom a decent necklace. Rewarded myself with a gaming PC.

What is your favorite game(s)?

I competitive gaming. CSGO, PUBG and Fortnite are some remarkable mentions. They're games I play much often.

Have you participated in any tournaments? Think LAN.

I'm part of a local clan and have competed at many lounges. Made some decent cash this summer just off this.

Last but not least, have you been a Terror since the public school era?

You know it :)

Congrats on being the new co-Owner. Hopefully Mr.two faced treats you right. My experience with him was great all until when it came to payments. He will take your side but spit in your face once he is done with you. Just be carefully thats all. Goodluck!

Thanks for your application. You went into great detail; we appreciate that.

You will be hearing from Flaws or myself soon. ?

He might not be able to remain a co-owner of this crew since he has been ban.

Why are you an asset?

When reading the group description it spoke on topics that directly relate to me. Gaming, startups, services, cryptocurrency trading, and personal finance. Those things represent ME. It kinda gave me chills when I read that. With my skills, and other info listed below, I know I'd be a great member to Terror. I am looking for a dedicated crew to network and build relationships with so I can proudly rep the colors here on HF.

What are your primary skills?

I currently work for one of the largest financial institutions here in the US. For a living, I actually work as a banker and I help clients with their finances. So talking about money, debt, investments, trading, etc are all areas of expertise for me. I sit with clients that typically have 20k+ with the bank. Also, crypto is a big part of my life (and portfolio lol) and I am very knowledgeable about the technology and potential of what it can become. Sadly, I cant talk to clients about Bitcoin or crypto so I enjoy coming here to speak with others about it. Currently, I actively trade when opportunity presents itself for a swing. I also am running a currency exchange service here that I am gearing up for bigger things.

Why should you be accepted into Terror?

I'm a hustler. I work hard and when I put my mind to something it gets done. My knowledge in several of the previously mentioned topics would make me an amazing member. I want to contribute in making this crew something special.

What is one of your greatest accomplishments?

In college I started my own small business revolving around poker. When Chris Moneymaker won the World Series of Poker everyone and their mother wanted to play Texas Hold'em. A lot of sports bars started having free poker tournaments at their establishments with house cash prizes. I saw the opportunity and began approaching restaurant/bar owners pitching my professional poker tournament services. That ultimately grew into several games a week that I ran. From there poker became my life. I ended up running cash games, played poker for a living and dealt games all for 9 years. I ate, breathed and lived poker every day and the $$ was the reward. Was nice walking out of games with cash money, not tied to a job, and having financial freedom! One of the highlights of my life.

What is your favorite game(s)?

Command and Conquer Red Alert

Halo 3

World of Warcraft

CSGO

H1Z1

The Division

Call of Duty (most all of them) - Been playing Blackout

Have you participated in any tournaments? Think LAN.

Yup. Competed in local LAN tournaments for CS 1.6 and CSGO.

Last but not least, have you been a Terror since the public school era?

Of course ?

Bathroom passes, cuttin classes, squeezin asses .. haha
