

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Where do you write the ? symbol

Winds - January 4, 2019, 10:49 am

Hi everyone,

Let's say I want to send 10 bytes, do I write 10 ? or ? 10?

For example, we all know that we should write $10 and not 10$, is this the same for bytes?

Hertz- - January 4, 2019, 10:51 am

What do you mean? If you wanna donate to someone just enter 10

TCP - January 4, 2019, 10:56 am

If you want to send bytes you just click the icon next to the amount and send them, or go to profile and click Donate

The ? symbol can be used as a currency in text, ex. ?1000

S2K - January 4, 2019, 10:57 am

(Jan 4, 2019 11:51 AM)Hertz- Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What do you mean? If you wanna donate to someone just enter 10

He is asking for where to place Bytes symbol, left of the amount or right

Ren And Stimpy - January 4, 2019, 10:59 am

To the LEFT ? 809.4

I would assume

Eagle 95 - January 4, 2019, 11:29 am

It doesn't really matter. It comes to personal preference. Placing a sign of currency (okay this isn't a currency but a forum points system) depends on your language. You have a good chart with euro sign.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Language_and_the_euro

Winds - January 4, 2019, 11:30 am

(Jan 4, 2019 12:29 PM)Eagle 95 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It doesn't really matter. It comes to personal preference. Placing a sign of currency (okay this isn't a currency but a forum points system) depends on your language. You have a good chart with euro sign.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Language_and_the_euro Well then, I guess I can close this thread now, thanks.

Omniscient - January 4, 2019, 12:14 pm

I don't think we have a standard yet. Goes either way for now.