Thread: Amazon FBA - \$50,000+ in Student Earnings

mvmt - January 4, 2019, 8:55 pm

So I've been running my Amazon FBA mentorship for a few months now, some of my students are finally launching their products and seeing sales coming in each day. Overall, my students have well surpassed the $50,000 sales mark in just a few months. All of my students who have launched a product so far have found success, which is pretty incredible in my opinion. It feels good to be able to use my knowledge to teach others and potentially start a life-long career in e-commerce for them.

Here are some of their earnings:

In my opinion, e-commerce (especially Amazon FBA) is one of the best businesses you can get into. Online sales are heavily increasing each year with Amazon leading the forefront. If I could give anyone advice who is looking to be an entrepreneur or wants to start in e-commerce, the best thing you can do for yourself is just start now. Don't hesitate or waste time, dive straight in and engulf yourself with knowledge. Not to sound cheesy but life is fucking short, spend it living how you want.

I've said it before and I'll say it again. This is the gold rush of ecommerce. Anyone with a great product that provides great service can find WILD success in a matter of months. The effects are even larger when you play it out over several years.

now if only any of that was even profit lol

Why do you assume it's not? I barely spend any money on Amazon advertising, 90% organic sales. So if your product is selling and profitable there's little risk of losing money.

Amazon FBA is an amazing topic to dive into right now, especially because it's not so saturated as of right now unlike dropshipping (not that I'm saying dropshipping is not profitable, it's as profitable as Amazon FBA but quite harder in my opinion). Anyways, good job with your mentoring OP, might contact you too soon.

Great earnings! Would love to get into this, find it very interesting but don't know where to start or what kind of capital I need to start with?

May hit you up soon. But keep up the good work, you're obviously a good mentor for all your students to be profiting.

A few thousand (usd) is enough to start. I wouldn't recommend less as it doesn't give you room for mistakes, which you are likely to make.

Thanks! Going to look into this in the upcoming months when I have a bit more time to dedicate.

There's free information everywhere, plus a lot of trial/error.

Isn't fba getting saturated? There's tons of merchants doing it who have a shit ton of stock.

Isn't the market competitive?

Amazon is the largest online retailer in the world, they have about 50% of the entire e-commerce market share. Certain products are saturated but Amazon FBA as a whole? Never, there's plenty of money to go around for everyone.

As for your 2nd question, same answer. Certain products are very competitive, others are not. We look for products that have good revenue and low market competition/saturation.

Profit % depends on the product, but for my students it usually ranges 35-50%+.

Amazon FBA is a great place to get started man yuma64 - January 18, 2019, 9:11 am

I am really interested in investing in an online business ... I have a capital of $ 5000 that I can afford to invest, I was thinking of an e-commerce but I have also read about this issue of amazon fba ... I have some doubts and I do not I know where I should start, is it possible that you can be my mentor please?

Skull-13 - January 18, 2019, 9:21 am

I would do rock star things with such amount.

Congratulations!!!

Really decent earnings

I will buy your mentoring for sure when my clothing line is ready :)

mvmt - February 4, 2019, 7:29 pm

Thank you guys for your feedback ?

Context - February 6, 2019, 3:15 am

What's the bare minimum capital needed to start? Is $500-1k enough?
