Thread: Brag about debts, is this really a brag?

Maskin - January 13, 2019, 11:48 pm

I felt like bragging.

Since Feb 2017, I have made an average of $2600 per month (from good ol' hard work and not because of buying 1000 btc 9 years ago, unfortunately ?)

Anyways,

I have plenty of debts because of MISSTAKES from my younger days. This means that next month, I've paid just about ~$25200 in debts (since Feb 2017). The sad part is that I'm not done and will have to pay another ~$15000 ???

Good luck and stay strong for all you others in similar situations.

You must sleep shit, I bet you won't make that stupid mistake of being encumbered with debt again, once you're clear.

Well done for paying what you owe.....

Sometimes I do sleep bad but I learned to appreciate life in a different way and it's only getting better!

You're damn right I won't make the same misstake(s) ?

Have a nice day.

I was young and dumb once as well. At least you're going to learn from this.

It feels good paying debts, doesn't it? You have a long way though, keep going this way.
I've had a minor credit card dept, I mean I still have it, but started paying it and I feel great.

Good Luck Mates; and you can brag about anything as long as it does offend you

Yeah feels great, at least when you are over halfway done with the debts. The beggining is more or less only depressing ?
