

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Is Self Thread Bumping Allowed?

skull - January 25, 2019, 6:41 am

So, I noticed this guy which have a thread, and over the last 2 pages of posts is himself bumping the same thread atleast every second day?

I wondered, is this really allowed here on HF?

PerfectStorm - January 25, 2019, 6:44 am

I think you can bump every 24 hours.

Not 100% sure though.

SoulZeh - January 25, 2019, 6:44 am

If the posts are being deleted and then posted again then it's against the rules and if it's Low Quality Posting.

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=2284325>

webdev77 - January 25, 2019, 6:45 am

There is no rule against bumping your own thread. The only criteria is that new posts must add some sort of useful content to the thread. Just saying things like "bum.p 35 chars" or anything along those lines will get you warnings for low quality posts or posting etiquette.

Eagle 95 - January 25, 2019, 6:50 am

(Jan 25, 2019 07:45 AM)webdev77 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) There is no rule against bumping your own thread. The only criteria is that new posts must add some sort of useful content to the thread. Just saying things like "bum.p 35 chars" or anything along those lines will get you warnings for low quality posts or posting etiquette.

Or just stating something dead obvious that you're online or that you're still selling or etc. More info in Help Docs and here.

OP send me a link to thread for a review.

Thanks.