Thread: is this profitable?

duck - February 4, 2019, 4:56 am

If my friends are going to make 20 accounts so it's not considered as multi accounting, i'll buy LEET to each and send all bytes to my account, will this be profitable? what is the current price for bytes here on market.

Will this be illegal against Hackforums rules?

Silence - February 4, 2019, 4:57 am

Even if it's profitable this is what we call exploiting, against the rules lol.

What's exploiting on this?

My friends would use hackforums, and i would just buy them LEET as gift.

20 accounts, so you promise each of these accounts will have a unique user who hasn't has a account already here?

Or just buy few scratch cards and try your luck. You can win insane amounts of bytes.

Exactly what I was going to ask, because if you can't then it's using multis/alts. Either way, why would you want to do this, how much "profit" do you think that you would make on 20 accounts?

I would make sure all of my friends don't have account here on yet, and i don't know if this would be profitable, that's why i'm asking.

I think the same, gambling never leads to win but why not try it once right.

PerfectStorm - February 4, 2019, 5:10 am

I just scratched 2 scratch offs and lost

You gotta buy scratch cards for real money, not bytes. Money bought scratch cards have better odds than the bytes one.

To answer you question OP, no, this isn't profitable and more of a hassle than anything.

Honestly it's probably not worth the time for the amount of profit you would get

I doubt it would be profitable, especially if you compare the amount of time it takes to gather the bytes and then also the fact that you would be using multiple accounts which isn't allowed. Then there's also the fact that you want to exploit a feature here on HF, that's not the way to go if you want to actually support and keep the community HQ. Sure, it's more money for hf but it lowers the quality like hell and makes screws up the stats. Hence the neutral reputation which I'll now change since you are so high quality that you give "revenge rep".

Good game...

you are so rude to me, not a nice of you.

I don't know why you are making up stories

1. There is no exploit

2. No one is multi-accounting

You probably have some problem, want me to give you snickers?

Michael - February 4, 2019, 5:59 am

How is this not multi accounting when he makes 20 accounts on here?

Omniscient - February 4, 2019, 7:58 am

Hypothetically this is not the most profitable way to make Bytes.
