Age: 30

Timezone: Eastern

Past Contributions: I've been an active contributor to the various coding and web forums here on HF over the past 8 years; in fact, two-thirds of all of my posts are in the coding and web forums.

Over the years I've led various projects here on HF, encouraging involvement in open source, and pushing other developers to grow their skillsets. I've mentored a few individuals who I know have gone on to work in the web development space professionally. And in general, I've helped countless people through answering questions, encouraging better development techniques, and focusing on teaching how to think and learn like a programmer, versus just seeking the immediate answer without understanding the solution.

Explain in detail your interest in this division: I'm really on here on HF for the coding and web sections. My motivation is teaching, and when I can do that, I am at my most active. The unfortunate fact, though, is that the coding and web sections are dramatically slower than they once were. What I am looking for in this division are others that share my passion. People I can engage in conversations with. And perhaps help along the way too.

Whats past experience do you have to offer?: I'm a Full-Stack Engineer by trade (professional web development). And it's a hobby I am still, to this day, passionate about. I've been writing code in some manner or another since I was thirteen years old. Throughout the years I've volunteered in teaching roles at local schools and in various meetups. Aside from my day job, I've freelanced on the side in various IT capacities for companies ranging from the smallest mom and pop shop to automotive dealership groups.

Are you Interested in learning or helping others to learn more: Absolutely both. As I mentioned, I love to teach. So first and foremost that'd be my answer. But I am always learning something. I spend a stupid amount of money every month on learning subscriptions and books... like, it's legitimately more than any sane person should spend each month. So I'd love to learn from others in the group and repay that in kind by teaching subjects I am knowledgeable on. I am a firm believer in always learning. Once you stop that, you become complacent. And in my industry, complacency makes you ancient history in no time at all.

Why do you want to Join Samaritans: As I mentioned, it bums me out that the sections on HF I care about the most are slower than I've ever seen them. There's just not as much going on to keep me engaged in this community. I'm looking to the Samaritans to keep me engaged by providing more outlets for conversation and creativity. A couple of your divisions speak to my interests, and I'd enjoy joining up to chat with others about those topics.

Give us one primary reason on whose basis we should accept you: I am probably one of the most experienced developers here on HF. And you'll be hard pressed to find someone who enjoys teaching as much as I do. I'm not a shit poster, and you'll never see me put out a low-quality post. I'll represent your group well, churn out solid content, and be active as long as there's content worth engaging in.

Any other disclosure you want to inform us of: I'm not group hopper, nor am I looking to just collect another userbar. I wouldn't apply if I didn't believe I wouldn't be a good fit in your group or if I didn't believe I could remain active. I've been waiting to see recruitment where there's a focus within the group for programming. I'm glad I saw this thread, and hope to speak with you all further.

My application for [Finance Division] Application

Username: TheBanker

Profile Link: <https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=2071781>

Age: 32

Timezone: Eastern

Past Contributions: The bulk of my contributions or threads can be found in the Money and Crypto forums. I've shared investment advise before and tried to steer people in the right direction. One thread that comes to mind is here. In addition, for what it is worth, I provide a profession and legit currency exchange service that I am ramping up for bigger things.

Explain in detail your interest in this division: The interest in this division is driven by my (irl) career experience. I currently work for one of the largest financial institutions here in the US. For a living, I actually work as a banker and I help clients with their finances. So talking about money, debt, investments, trading, etc are all areas of expertise for me. I pride myself in being able to answer unique questions with catered solutions for each persons need or inquiry. Also, crypto is a big part of my life (and portfolio lol) and I am very knowledgeable about the technology and potential of what it can become. Sadly, I can't talk to clients about Bitcoin or crypto so I enjoy coming here to speak with others about it and share my knowledge. Currently, I actively trade when opportunity presents itself for a swing.

Whats past experience do you have to offer?: Aside from my current type of work I'm involved in, I used to day trade the e-mini s&p 500 and the japan e-mini nikkei 225 futures. So I have "real" trading experience that I can share with others. In addition, I had started my own small business when I was in college that was centered around poker. When the poker craze blew up when Chris Moneymaker won the World Series of Poker I took advantage of an opportunity. Everyone was wanting to play Texas Hold'em so restaurants and sports bars started having free to play games with house cash as prizes. I ended up approaching owners to provide my services to run their tournaments. This later evolved into poker being my life. For 9 years I dealt cash games, ran cash games, and played for a living.

Are you Interested in learning or helping others to learn more: Absolutely! Both! I've always enjoyed sharing what I know. "Leading a horse to water" is kind of the motto in my line of work. I try and explain complex things in a more simplistic way so everyone can understand it. This is something I'd really enjoy doing and would love to contribute to this crew. I also enjoy learning about new things. Knowledge is power.

Why do you want to Join Samaritans: I think the prestige of the Samaritans is what attracts me to this group. I've applied in the past to other groups and been invited before. But I have yet to come across a quality group that provides a mature audience. I am itching to be apart of a HQ crew where I know I can share my expertise and knowledge with others.

Give us one primary reason on whose basis we should accept you: If I get an invite you would have let in someone that is extremely knowledgeable in the broad, ever changing world of finance.

Any other disclosure you want to inform us of: Nope! Thank you for considering my application!

Business - February 5, 2019, 10:07 pm

Age: 27

Timezone: Eastern

Past Contributions: While my time here has been short, I have donated quite a bit of bytes away. (not for rep) Besides that, I consider my HQ postings to be contributing to the overall health of the forum.

Explain in detail your interest in this division: My interest in this division is to simply reach out to more people. I enjoy interacting with people and even more so lending helpful advice, whatever the case may be. In real life I have what feels like countless hours of volunteer work as a social therapist to campus students as well as the Veterans Help Line. (suicide prevention help line)

Are you Interested in learning or helping others to learn more: Of course! Within the subjects I feel most confident in, sure.

Why do you want to Join Samaritans: I would like to be accepted into what I feel is one of if not the most active crews that I've seen around Hackforums thus far. I would love to contribute to the future growth and prosperity (even if only by social) of the crew and uphold the integrity and meaningfulness the crew brings to the forums.

Give us one primary reason on whose basis we should accept you: High quality, I assure you all my posts will remain that of the status of the crew itself, high quality.

Any other disclosure you want to inform us of: No and thank you for considering my application!

Age: For privacy and security against possible DOXing attempts I can send this field via PM.

Timezone: Protection from Doxing attempt

Past Contributions: Very few contributions at the moment due to being new here but have helped out wherever possible and can continue to do so if provided with the opportunity.

Explain in detail your interest in this division: The reason for picking multiple divisions is simply that I have something to offer in one division while I would love to learn and share with others in the other division.

For the past 6 years now I've been involved in various financial ventures and projects. Due to which I have come across a lot of different scenarios and gained plenty of experience. Here is a quick shortlist:

Multiple website Owner/Founder Learned to manage a large community | Community relations and customer support

Managing staff | Project management, hiring, training and leadership

Evaluating profits, competing in markets, generating revenue and monetizing strategy development

Marketing & Promotion | Any founder has faced this. I've dealt with many strategies including but not limited to SEO on Google, Bing, Yahoo and Duckduckgo and SMM on platforms such as Instagram, Snapchat and Facebook.

While above is a quick shortlist, there is a lot more I can offer. When it comes to Networking I've done plenty to secure computers and servers as well as break them. Times have changed which is why I am now taking a somewhat professional ethical hacking course (Online) and educating myself further. I'm sure I can learn more by connecting to the right people and once I am experimenting i can guide others with what i discover/learn.

Whats past experience do you have to offer?:

Social Engineering and E-whoring | Human Persuasion and using psychology to predict outcomes (Yes this is possible)

Coding (Javascript, CSS, HTML), Linux and Windows Server Administration and Website Development/Management

Keylogging and ratting + SQLi and XSS

SEO and Social Media Management

Privacy, Computer Security and Malware Removal

Money Management, Investing and Monetizing Strategies

Business Management - Most issues you can think of, I've dealt with it

Researching, OSINT, Niche Finding and Analysis

Are you Interested in learning or helping others to learn more: Of Course. Whatever I am learning on HF is shared knowledge from others. I won't be benefiting if it was not for others generosity. Its only right that I continue the good deed.

Why do you want to Join Samaritans: Its an opportunity to meet new people, learn and mentor other people. A chance to have long-lasting relationships during my time here on HF

Give us one primary reason on whose basis we should accept you: Anyone who seems to be capable of offering value to your group should be considered and at least experimented/put on probation. Truth be told you can not tell the difference between a high quality group member from a forum member. Someone can be a very active member on the board but does not get along with the group.

Any other disclosure you want to inform us of: Samaritans does sound like an interesting group to join but I would appreciate an invite if only the group is truly diverse. People from different backgrounds, interests and experience. I've been in groups before and some groups are too zombie like or autopilot. Differences allow discussions and a chance to grow as a person.

Past contributions: I try to help users around here. I'm a full time CS major at university so a lot of my contributions have been offline with my peers.

Explain in detail your interest in this division: I want to teach this community about the beautiful and efficient programming language Elixir.

Whats past experience do you have to offer?: I used to write Minecraft hacks, but I got bored of that and would rather not go back into game hacking. I can offer a lot of help in Java, C++, Python, and a few others. I'm also a big fan of data science, so if any needs help with linear algebra or statistics, I can make time to assist. I'd prefer to be an Elixir language evangelist. It's probably the most underrated programming language for youngsters and other programming newbies. Elixir is also extremely powerful and this community needs to learn about it.

Are you interested in learning or helping others to learn more: Of course! I love helping people learn, computer science takes time.

Why do you want to join Samaritans: I want to be part of a group of like-minded individuals. I see Samaritans as a vector of promoting my Elixir evangelism and sharing my CS knowledge of algorithms and data structures.

Give us one primary reason on whose basis we should accept you: I will help you guys code, in the group, and represent the CS side of the group with great mentorship and written tutorials here on HF.

Any other disclosure you want to inform us of: I was away from HackForums for approx. 2 years. I went through a phase of low qualities. I do not believe that such LQ posting represents who I am today.

Past Contributions: I don't have any. I'm still a relatively new member, but then again, that's why I want to join the group, to contribute to the forum.

Explain in detail your interest in this division: I don't have many abilities, but one thing I can do, help people and care for them, which is why I want to join this division in particular.

Whats past experience do you have to offer?: As a young man, I still have a lot to learn, nevertheless, I have helped several people to overcome their problems throughout my life.

I strongly believe that you don't need any kind of experience for this though, you just have to be empathic.

Are you Interested in learning or helping others to learn more: Of course, that's the main reason I have to join this group.

Why do you want to Join Samaritans: A month ago, I had some personal problems that I needed to take care of. One day, I opened HF and I saw this amazing thread from BowmanBot:

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5789156>. When I clicked on it I felt warmth and security. I messaged several members that were listed on the thread to get some help, they answered right back with kind and motivating advices that helped me solve my problems.

That's why; I want to help other people like Samaritans helped me.

Give us one primary reason on whose basis we should accept you: I'm an open minded person and I'm always looking for growth. I ensure you that I will be a helpful member of the group.

Any other disclosure you want to inform us of: Not much, but I do want to thank you guys for doing such an awesome work with all of your support threads.

Explain in detail your interest in this division: I'm very interested in this division and I believe I can contribute to it because I've worked with computers my entire life. I built my first pc a few years back and I'm always looking for new parts I can add to my build. I recently graduated high school and now I'm a full-time student in college. I hope to become a software engineer for a large company like microsoft or google.

Whats past experience do you have to offer?: I've done a lot of front-end and back-end work. I have experience working with various different API's mainly dealing with video games.

Are you Interested in learning or helping others to learn more: I have a lot to learn myself, but I'm always available to help others in need.

Why do you want to Join Samaritans: I want to meet other developers and share the knowledge I have and also gain knowledge to better myself.

Give us one primary reason on whose basis we should accept you: I'm here to learn and help others, I hope I get accepted into this group so I can further expand my knowledge.

Past Contributions: All kind of stuff past the time I've been here. I enjoy wondering around every section of this forums, learn new and interact with others. I'm most likely trying to be helpful as much as I can and give others knowledge I have to share. Over the past years I've been here I've tried my best to stay High quality as much as possible and helpful to the forums.

Explain in detail your interest in this division: Don't have a specific division I'd love to be in (So counts as social?), because I like to do little bit of everything. I had a break from HF and gotten back lately, so trying to figure out where to put my feet on the ground. I mostly spend my time in marketing and lounge section. Social division would probably be my place due to I'm very social, I like to socialize, help and speak over everything human kind can imagine.

Whats past experience do you have to offer?: Knowledge from there and here. I've learned lots of things past the years what HF have had to teach me.

Are you Interested in learning or helping others to learn more: More than interested. I'm always up for learning new and teaching/helping out others with the knowledge I have.

Why do you want to Join Samaritans: I would love to be accepted because I feel like I see you guys all around the forums and I'd love to hang out, discuss shit and most likely join with somekind of a project. I would love to see the group grow and contribute the future growth to it.

Give us one primary reason on whose basis we should accept you: I've been HF's member for years and always been high quality, always trying to be just like the crew!

Username: Raven

Profile Link: <https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=2345942>

Age: 23

Timezone: UTC -5:00

Past Contributions: I have contributed giveaways, free E-books and maintained an overall high quality, relevant and helpful presence throughout the forums.

Explain in detail your interest in this division: I'm extremely passionate for everything related to finance. I'm a cryptocurrency enthusiast, I'm working towards creating my own business and I possess excellent money management skills overall. As for the social aspect of my application, I'm very active in the lounge and personal life forums where I contribute relevant information and advice to other members. I'm quite social as a person overall and I enjoy engaging in casual and meaningful conversation about other people's lives/problems as well as my own.

What past experience do you have to offer?: I've experienced quite a bit in my 23 years and I consider myself to be relatable as an individual. I'm into cars and bikes. I have alot of information on a mechanical level as I do all my own work. I made a fair amount of financial moves when I was younger that I constantly try to steer others away from making. I've lost close friends and I essentially gave up at one point. It took some time but I rebounded and I'm doing better emotionally and financially at this point. The only way to go is up.

Are you Interested in learning or helping others to learn more: Definitely a healthy mixture of the two. Team effort and guidance are extremely important. I'm eager to offer whatever knowledge and advice I can to help others, though I have alot to learn myself. I'm not where I want to be in life yet but, I'm working towards it.

Why do you want to Join Samaritans: I would like to join based off of the core concepts of the divisions I'm applying for. I would like to share and learn with like-minded people. I thrive this way.

Give us one primary reason on whose basis we should accept you: I'm here on Hackforums for quite honestly a single reason being, sharing information and gaining information. My posts are relevant, high quality and as helpful as possible. I'm a business minded, experienced individual that can represent your group appropriately.

Any other disclosure you want to inform us of: I do work 3rd shift as a shipping coordinator at a 3rd party logistics company. My hours are a bit defunct as of currently. This is extremely obvious based on when I'm most active here. That being said, my activity in the group would mainly be during off hours.

Age: 18

Timezone: GMT

Past Contributions: HackFest 2016 CTF writeup, Toppo CTF writeup. I'm just returning to HF so will be contributing more in the future.

EDIT: Just posted this thread.

Explain in detail your interest in this division: I've always had an interest in network & wireless security, more on the red team/attacker side of things. I enjoy networking in general, as it requires active maintenance and monitoring - where every packet can mean success or failure of a security operation (defensive or offensive). I've also been looking into having an RFID implant installed; partially for the novelty but also to experiment and create projects involving access control and other wireless security concepts.

Whats past experience do you have to offer?: I am currently studying for my CCNA along with studying for a Bachelor's degree in Cyber Security (1st year). Along with this I enjoy playing CTF challenges from VulnHub.

Are you Interested in learning or helping others to learn more: Both, where and when I can. I'm happy to admit when I don't fully understand a concept, and am always willing to learn.

Why do you want to Join Samaritans: Truthfully, I want to join a group of people that I can exchange information and educational material with. I want to join Samaritans for advancement of my skills as well as the social aspect of being in a registered group.

Give us one primary reason on whose basis we should accept you: I should be accepted into Samaritans' NetSec Division on the basis of being able to contribute high-quality and relevant information & help to other members and the forum as a whole. As a returning HF member I'm looking to get more active in the networking & pentesting sections, while representing Samaritans.

Any other disclosure you want to inform us of: As I'm in full time education, I may not seem as active as other potential applicants, but if I'm accepted I'll be happy to put time and dedication into working as an active member of Samaritans. I suppose I may as well also mention that I enjoy collecting CompSci/Programming/InfoSec books from various places on the internet and would be happy to share what I have with all other group members (Currently ranging around $1.5k worth of PDFs).

Explain in detail your interest in this division:

I've just returned to the Forum after a year and a half break and ever since I've joined the Forum I've always had an interest in anime and discussing it with other members so I would like to take apart in those conversations again.

Whats past experience do you have to offer?:

Like I mentioned above I have 125+ posts in Anime Adventures, helped write for the Anime section of the News and have been apart of every Anime group since I've been on the forum including AnimeFan, Pirates etc.

Are you Interested in learning or helping others to learn more:

Yes of course.

Why do you want to Join Samaritans:

Like I mentioned above I am looking for another area to talk about Anime with other members in an active Sub-Forum with knowledgeable members.

Give us one primary reason on whose basis we should accept you:

My experience with Anime and discussing the topics.

Any other disclosure you want to inform us of:

No.

Explain in detail your interest in this division: I have since become more active on HF and I'd like to once again join a community. I noticed you have an Anime/Manga section and the last group i was a part of was Baka, and I had an amazing time there, and I only hope this would be the same experience, and if it isn't I'll help in making it the same or even better.

Whats past experience do you have to offer?: Was a mentor for Social Engineering. Pretty knowledgeable about cooking :)

Are you Interested in learning or helping others to learn more: Ofcourse.

Why do you want to Join Samaritans: Like I said earlier, I'd like to experience having an amazing community to interact with about one of my hobbies and past times.

Give us one primary reason on whose basis we should accept you: No reason

Any other disclosure you want to inform us of: Nope

Past Contributions: Majority of my past contributions have been in the Vices section, that's where I'm most active. Haven't really given much advice, and haven't really contributed anything major. Judge that how you will but I can assure you I'm a solid member.

Explain in detail your interest in this division: I'm a massive music and movies fan, it takes me hours to find a film that I have yet to watch and I've seen so many movies that I can't even remember half of them. I could list all my favourite movies/artists and be here all day, peaked my interest mainly because of the requirements. I could easily adhere to them.

What's past experience do you have to offer?: Not only can I share my knowledge on movies and hold a mean discussion. But I can also recommend vast varieties of music from a wide array of genres to people looking for some new shit to tune themselves into. I also worked in Citizen's Advice as paid staff for a year on their adviceline so not only is my life advice on point and on tap, but my customer service skills are fucking crystal.

Are you interested in learning or helping others to learn more: Certainly. Expanding my mind and helping others to do the same is what I'm all about 100%.

Why do you want to Join Samaritans: Israelites captured the region known as Samaria from the Canaanites and assigned it to the Tribe of Joseph. Now I don't know who Joseph is but he seems like a dick. Also I think this group looks pretty cool and there are clearly a ton of divisions where I could broaden my horizons and who knows, maybe I'll be an expert on everything some day...

Give us one primary reason on whose basis we should accept you: I'm not a Christian, but there is definitive evidence to suggest that Jesus existed. And Jesus is the geezer who said "As you wish that others would do to you, do so to them" and if you don't want me in the group then you shouldn't want yourself in it either lol.

Any other disclosure you want to inform us of: I wrote a bullshit E-Book on money making when I was broke as fuck back in the day, and it was blatant that said E-Book was bullshit. However I did have a pretty fresh looking ad for it which I thought was kind of cool

Past Contributions: not sure what this means, but I have watched a good amount of anime and coded some useless shit. Anything useful that I code normally isn't open source. I also have some experience in crypto, and I am currently following crypto.

Explain in detail your interest in this division: Finance division - I am just curious on how other people see crypto. A bunch of the people in the crypto sphere are sheeple, willing to invest in any scam coin that gets their attention, and a lot of people who hold bitcoin are constantly making up bullshit predictions (omg btc to 10 million because of this squiggly line i drew!)

Whats past experience do you have to offer?: experience in the crypto field I guess.

Are you Interested in learning or helping others to learn more: Helping others learn more.

Why do you want to Join Samaritans: To see other users opinions on crypto, and some anime related info.

Give us one primary reason on whose basis we should accept you: These questions seem suspiciously repetitive.

Past Contributions: So far, none yet. I plan on changing this very soon within the next few weeks.

Explain in detail your interest in this division: I'm interested in the Vices/Social division as I am an experienced drug user and addict and have done plenty of research on the dangers of various drugs that I've partaken in, which gives me first hand experience as well as scientific experience based on studies I've found online. What I mean by that is I haven't myself done any scientific studies myself. I believe I can help people understand the dangers of vices if they're willing to listen. I'm also interested in the Finance division for the sole reason of interest to learn. I have loads of free time on my hands after I get off work and I'm an aspiring crypto investor, my aim is to increase my knowledge of crypto in hopes of making positive returns.

Whats past experience do you have to offer?: I have little to no experience that I could offer in the Finance division. I have lots of experience I can provide for the Social/Vices division which could be referenced by the above answer to my interest in the Social division.

Are you Interested in learning or helping others to learn more: To put it simply, yes.

Why do you want to Join Samaritans: I love the idea of the Samaritans, I would like to put my knowledge to better use by aiming to help the community of Hack Forums and I believe the Samaritans has the perfect structure to allow me to do so. I would also love to learn more from the members of the Samaritans and expand my knowledge in specific areas.

Give us one primary reason on whose basis we should accept you: I only have the best intentions here and am always willing to provide a helping hand in any one situation no matter how complex it may be.
