facebook youtube post is kinda weird. i guess the title is really clickbait, since every major platform advertises, nothing new there, so the content itself is pretty dry.

but the formatting is also really bad. i dont want to read two giant blocks of text at 12pt font or whatever, i found myself skipping lines or rereading them because of that and the experience generally wasnt nice. break it up a bit more, and don't focus on straight editorial, get other opinions on there (ie. screenshots of tweets, statements from companies, etc.)

Really appreciate the feed back as I want the site to look good for everyone, I'll go through and try and make the current post more appealing and getting others views on stuff included after work and work on getting it right with the original publish from here on out, thank you for the Feedback sir!

It's good enough for a testing project. It lacks a good logo. The current text based is not appealing to the eye.

I also noticed that the scrolling is way too fast for me. I was reading a post and then I tried to scroll. It went way down and missed my reading point.

Logo is definitely on the list to get done.

And I'll gave to check out what you mean when I'm on my laptop but thank you for letting me know, appreciate the feedback!

I would definitely love to see some darker color scheme, perhaps even a different theme - or custom one since it's WP.
