Summary:

I contacted Bear somewhere in November to do a paper for me. Made it clear that this paper that he was gonna do is not your typical general paper but instead it will be technical paper, I wrote down all the requirement and objective of the paper into a PDF which was given to him via Skype and included it into the HF contract as URL. The paper's primary objective was "Developing a sets of security guideline on how to defend honeypot/honeynets" however as of the deadline there was none in his final draft. Bear did provide some "attacks" in his final draft such as his "remote code execution" but it was no use to me as there he did not achieve the project objective

There was also a demo which was stated in the HF contract, to demonstrate the usefulness of the paper that Bear was to do. It's simply proving a attack is successful in attacking a honeypot that was not secure with the paper vs a honeypot that was secure with the paper. Bear told me he rented a VPS specially for this mini demo however on the dateline, there was no clear instruction to perform the mini demo neither was I given access to the said VPS. If I recalled correctly, back then there wasn't any "technical" aspect of the paper done yet, just a bunch of general/background information. He even asked me what and my team have done so far, what attacks we have done or what methods we have undertake to secure the honeypot so far

Bear did mentioned to me that Honeypot are secure by nature, I did clarify with him that I am not asking him to find any sort of zero day exploit. I clarified that even by changing the Honeypot default configuration such as its port 2222 is a form of securing it as it will help prevent attacker to find out that its indeed a honeypot

Payment was made fully end November but the first draft was only received on the 22nd of December 2018.

Based on the contract, which states "The absolute deadline is 10 weeks from the initiation of contract" the due date would be 7th February(HF time). Looking at the progress I've contacted Bear for a refund sad you think any user here would actually finish an assignment for $1600

Sword - February 6, 2019, 7:57 pm

What in the world? Posting here to come back later. I wonder what Bear has to say about this.

Elysium - February 6, 2019, 7:59 pm

My goodness, that is a lot of money for an essay. The terms of the contract are private so it is a little hard to gauge this without seeing the terms of the agreement. Bear seems to be a trustworthy member so I really hope that you guys are able to work this out civilly.

(Feb 6, 2019 09:15 PM)Bear Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) OP, are you mad that you did not provide proper info to me about weekly updates and then your marks were deducted coz of that? As discussed earlier, I cannot help you with what happened in that aspect.

I am still ready to fix up whatever requirements you need, just need clear instructions from you.

OP has been contacted to fix the issues in the report, OP is not responding to messages. As of this message, there is still 24+ hours left in the contract to deliver this project, which I have specifically mentioned to OP I am ready to provide only if he tells me what he needs in a proper list instead of just saying "provide security guidelines". Any time wasted as of this dispute will be added on to the contracted time.

I said no to refund because I have already written your 40 page report. If you had asked for a refund earlier, I would have gladly provided you a refund, but why should I refund you now, when I have already delivered 90% of the paper to you?

Please get in touch with me asap, as misguided anger will not resolve your problem but communicating with me will. Any time you waste as of this dispute is your liability. I am online and ready to receive the detailed edit list from you to finish the job.

Thank you.

As I've mentioned many times to you in Skype, this is the basically the idea of the paper ( <https://i.imgur.com/DTv954C.png> ) , What you have given me so far is basically general/background information, no specific information. I even crafted a PDF as per your request and given it to you way back in November.

The security guidelines are what the name states security guidelines, You could do something really simple such as updating the host/honeypot by running "apt-get update" and "apt-get upgrade", perform an attack on a outdated system with known vulnerabilities and show that keeping your system up to date is really important to patch any known vulnerability. That can already be 1 "security guideline". I've mention this to you a couple of times via Skype ( <https://i.imgur.com/RfG3OI9.png> ) , of course I'm not looking for something that you can simple get from Googling but that's the idea.

You only contacted me after I contacted you requesting for a refund and telling you that I want to post it on HF DD. You can write 100 pages even 10000 pages but if it doesn't fulfill the objective of the contract what's the point?

No point in pushing the blame onto me and making it seems like you're in the right, you didn't fulfill the contract / the paper's objective. You told me on Skype "This is the end of our communication" after you saw the dispute, not me.

To be very honest, I feel that if you wanted to complete it you would have done it already last week ( <https://i.imgur.com/evfOJUk.png> ), let me check for any changes and hand it over by the 7th of Feb 2019.

Obviously not supposed to help him, the point is if he would of scammed him he wouldn't be here trying to fix the problems the OP is upset about.

"Get on skype, send me specific list of edits you want, we can sort this after you have submitted the paper and have done well."

It's a simple solution, get on Skype like Bear has asked and tell him exactly what you need edited/done for the paper to be complete. I wouldn't refund you either if I had already put in 40 pages worth of work.

In my first post and post #10, I have already stated what is lacking and even gave an example.

Furthermore it is not as if I simply dump the "requirement" on him and refuse to reply him at all. I have constantly been discussing with him and kept on telling him what needs to be done which is to simulate an attack ... ( <https://i.imgur.com/DTv954C.png> )

I understand that Bear have put in work however it does not fulfill the objective, it is useless to me.

Please refer to the PDF given to you, as of now there is zero guideline on how to actually secure a honeypot, there is no specific steps on how to secure the honeypot. things like modifying of default configuration to reduce it chances of being found out or how to perform said step specifically

2 months was given to Bear, the deadline is almost here however there is zero information relating to the paper's objective. There is zero clear and specific guideline on how to secure any sorts of honeypots.

I understand that Bear have put in work however it does not fulfill the objective, it is useless to me. Do you have a backup paper for this assignment? I'm going to guess not. Your best bet if Bear can't fully complete it is come up with a fair amount for him to send back and it will be up to you to finish the paper. I'm sure getting a 0 on this paper isn't an option and will really impact your grade, therefore, you will have to use what was written up until this point regardless.

I hope this gets resolved and both of you walk away satisfied ?

I've wasted a whole evening waiting for you to tell me how exactly you want me to edit the paper. Stop referring me to a damn PDF, I've seen it. I've printed it and stared at it for 2 months, it doesn't talk about anything in depth. What exactly do you need, send me sample of what you need if you can. The example you gave will def fail you since updating an OS is a patch to any sort of vulnerability, which is why I am asking you to send me exactly what you need. The "guidelines" you mentioned are not a way to stop a hack attack, so if that's what you want, just say so and I'm on it Thread was only up for 2 hours, I contacted you and had a quick chat with you for about 30 minutes? and now you wanna add an entire 24 hours on your own?

You told me you "printed it and stared at it for 2 months", when I mentioned about the PDF to you it seems like you totally forgot about it ( <https://i.imgur.com/BRduS4P.png> )

The "updating of the OS" is just an example of the security guidelines of what I want. It's to better help you understand what I want, I don't need to stop a "hack attack" I need to secure Honeypots, that is the project objective. Even until now, It seems you don't get what I'm trying to put across neither do you understand the project objective.

(Feb 6, 2019 11:11 PM)Bear Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The very response I've been giving him is that I don't want him to fail, which is why I need him to tell me exactly what he needs and I'll do it for him, since he's paid me and I want him to do well.

I'm gonna edit the paper to what I think would make him happy versus him clarifying it with me, hopefully that works out.

Well, you didn't give me my mini demo as agreed upon that have already affect my grades a little since it is part of the marking scheme.

Sounds like you guys need to go in voice chat to talk it out and come to clear, agreed terms. The lingo and requirements and stuff you guys are talking about is pretty much foreign language to me but it's clear you guys don't even understand or agree with each other. If he has to keep saying he needs something and you say it's there, idk.

(Feb 6, 2019 11:27 PM)Bear Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I had mentioned to you that honeypots are pretty much safe by nature, which is why we decided to hack the Linux install to be able to access the honeypot. Once you gain access to a Linux root, it's pretty straight forward to access the honeypot from there. I can add honeypot security guidelines as well, but that won't go with the paper since we took the Linux hack approach.

For the attack part, I've shown 3 methods, sql injection, remote code execution and buffer overflow. Please tell me what else you want for the attack part. The security guidelines, I'll add it on the report within 26 hours, which is the contracted deadline as I have had.

And no, I was aware of the terms, but you never mentioned pre order that you wanted to see the whole thing done 20 days before deadline, in the form of update. If that was mentioned, I wouldn't have never agreed to it. Please show me in the terms where I agreed to show you the report mostly done 20 days before deadline. You threw that on me, which is why I am so backlogged and confused with this right now. Im still going to take the 26 hours I have on my deadline and do the job as per the pdf you had sent me.

I will send you your report in exact format of the pdf you sent me, if you need edits, you're free to PM me on site. I expect your sale trashing to end and delete all the drama once the job is delivered. Took the Linux hack approach and providing 3 attacks???

we all know Bear and know he wouldn't scam anyone but also thrudda is a old member who have good reputation from long time so it's a big misunderstanding here,

Bear already don't work ( written work with small explanation of the attack ) and i can see from last pics he did good with this part but thrudda need the attack simulated so more action and less talk he wanna actions explain the process that's why he mean what he say with " this isn't good or full fill the order "

so i think now he will lose time and money again trying to fix this problem solution that u give Bear time to fix this

You're right man, I just need to type out the guideline along with the screenshots, but I've been asking him what exactly he needs me to type out through the guideline. If you understand the attack methods I use, you'll see that I did all 3 of them the right way. I still have time to fix them but if that's all he needs, he needs to specifically tell me that's all and nothing else. If he comes tomorrow with another issue that he doesn't mention now or didn't before, then that'll waste more time.

Just tell me a total list of things you need done. That's all. If the security guidelines and attack guiding content is all that is lacking, that's only a couple hours of type up, nothing so major to raise a dispute over, especially when contract isn't even up yet.

i think i can help you guys solve this problem easy without need this kind of threads please both of you guys add me on skype and i can help get this done asap as it's my main work and it's hard to see someone get 0 in grad for misunderstanding i will be happy if this got solved

In my opinion the price is too high for a paper work, I hope you guys get this sorted out

Net - February 7, 2019, 9:31 am

This has been one hell of a read. I didn't even understand 1/3 of what you two were saying, since im not much of a computer guy.

But 1600$ for a homework assignment? Just how important was that homework?

applebox21 - February 7, 2019, 9:31 am

For that amount of money, I believe, proper technical stimulation of attack should have been provided by Bear.

Based on what I've seen from the screenshot from OP, Bear has ultimately failed to deliver OP's request and has misunderstood the objective of the work itself.

Why accept a work that cannot be done by you?

Is it because of money?

Smells fishy in here.....

Wasn't homework, it's his thesis paper.

I noticed that too. It's 100 percent clear that the OP is having his gang of friends register here and then comment. I barely understand what's going on, as I would have to actually put effort into reading it, but it seems that maybe hiring someone to do a highly technical paper would not be the best choice, especially when communicating through Skype.

Not saying is Bear, just saying I noticed this in his trust scan, perhaps is using a vpn or something From what I have seen in the past, it is against the rules to post the trust scan of a member, I could be wrong.

I believe the staff and many members here on HF know who I am and where I live, I have nothing to hide since I have not done anything wrong here. I gave OP the new terms after they violated our contract and opened this thread, it's closing in on the contract closing time, yet his unnecessary bashing still stands, so I am assuming he will keep the 50 page report I have sent him as final copy.

I was online all night just incase he changes his mind, which he didn't, so I have done my due diligence.

Reverse psychology idk ? (probably it's not him at all)

MO BAMBA - February 7, 2019, 9:55 pm

everyone complaining how expensive the homework is, $1500+ is reasonable for the amount of work. 50 pages and you need to have a strong thesis and whatever the topic is on i'm assuming is really important for his job/potential career. You get what you pay for; Can't just bs a 50 page paper

No point going round and round, you broke the contract by failing to hand me over the mini demo which was stated in the HF contract due more than a month ago.

Don't understand how am I "bashing" when you are the one that didn't uphold to the end of your deal.

Sorry to see this OP. I was looking at his HW services for a class or two as-well.

50 pages, I would of charged more than that so stop complaining. Don't know much about this Bear guy but he definitely handle everything professionally on his end.

Whatever happened to this OP? Were u resolved on this issue because Bear is rather a ruthless guy from my encounters with him.
