Thread: Whats worse rape or murder?

Spiku - February 10, 2019, 11:43 am

My friend says rape is worse because it traumatizes someone for life while i say murder so what do you guys think? Both are terrible though

Cocaine - February 10, 2019, 11:46 am

Rape is by far worse in my opinion. I would never want to be in that position. Imagine having to live the rest of your life after such a horrible and traumatic experience?

Xerotic - February 10, 2019, 11:47 am

IMO murder is probably worse for the family/friends and rape is probably worse for the victim.

SIM-3343347 - February 10, 2019, 11:47 am

Rape is bad if both parties scream

Lynx - February 10, 2019, 11:57 am

I think rape is worse since, like your friend said, you are traumatized for life. Murder is worse for relatives though.

I'd have to agree with this.

With rape, the victim will be scarred for life, but at least they're still around. Their family isn't mourning their loss and never seeing them again, but the victim is going to deal with emotional turmoil the rest of their life and it could end up effecting them very negatively (loss of job, toxic relationships, etc).

Compared to murder, the victim doesn't feel anything. The murder itself could've been brutal, but the victim is dead. The family will have a lot to grieve over and it will be hard for them.

I think rape might actually be worse now that I'm typing it out. With rape, once the crime (and possible trial/conviction/etc) is done, the victim just fades off into the shadows. It's not something people will actively remember and try to reach out to the person to help (similar to families where their loved one is killed). It's a person who is now scarred from a traumatic experience and has to try to navigate through it on their own. Yikes.

And sadly, you will even find in some cases the victim getting raped then murdered

AeroBlue - February 10, 2019, 1:16 pm

Murder is worse, think about it... If someone gets murdered it affects everyone around them drastically. Rape is awful but it's not permanently taking someone's life away, recovery is always possible.

Yhea, I'd agree with this. But you can't really put felonies like those on a scale imo.

Anyhow, rape is worse, it traumatizes the victim and it also affects its relationships with family members and other people around the victim. Murder on the other hand results in death, death comes with life so we all will die at some point for sure. Either way, murder is way worse for the family and friends obviously, but for the victim, well, the victim won't at least be traumatized...

Takehito Morokuzu - February 10, 2019, 1:31 pm

Both are terrible, but the people above make a good point, you cannot recover from death and death affects everyone around them, whereas rape, you can recover from

Unexplained - February 10, 2019, 1:32 pm

Murder is perminate and not repairable.

Murder is worst. But to be clear they are both fucking horrible.

Pikachu - February 10, 2019, 1:36 pm

Exactly what xerotic said, murder is gonna impact the family and friends of the victim significantly, but rape will seriously affect the victim.

Ninja - February 10, 2019, 2:22 pm

I would say murder but then again, I have no idea how long a victim would take to recover from a rape incident. Still, they have life on this planet even though it hurts them when thinking about it. I think that's better than not being here ever again.

owlfy - February 10, 2019, 2:24 pm

I don't know about rape but I've been murdered before and it didn't feel good.

PARAZORA - February 10, 2019, 2:26 pm

Rape, no question asked.

You can murder someone out of defence.

Flooming - February 10, 2019, 2:26 pm

i personally believe the question extends into a bit of philosophy. is there an afterlife, anything after you die?

I of course am not going to attempt to push any answer to it, but somebody who believes in an afterlife may not see being killed as such a terrible thing as being raped, as you will go to where you belong either way. A person who doesn't believe afterlife may see it as you only have one life on this planet and to lose it would be the worst possible thing that could happen to you.

Pray - February 10, 2019, 2:29 pm

I think while rape can traumatize the person, it's not guaranteed to traumatize the person to the point where they can't ever be happy again. Many rape victims, over time, can lead normal lives and enjoy their life. Murder doesn't allow for that to happen, naturally. So, I think murder is worse.

(Feb 10, 2019 03:26 PM)PARAZORA Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Rape, no question asked.

I don't think any modern country counts self defense killings as murder. Murder is intentional, unlawful (meaning no justification), usually involves premeditation, and malice afterthought.

Banter. - February 10, 2019, 2:45 pm

Rape is worse, Especially when it applies to Children ?

Onireves - February 10, 2019, 2:52 pm

Some people have reasons to be murdered, but no one has reasons to be raped

HERMES - February 10, 2019, 2:54 pm

Rape is worse, but I'd rather be raped than murdered.

scam. - February 10, 2019, 2:58 pm

Well I'd rather be raped than murdered.

Spaark - February 10, 2019, 3:00 pm

Thousands of people have gotten over rape. Nobody can get over murder. Spare my soul, have my anus.

Rape can be avenged.

(Feb 10, 2019 03:52 PM)Onireves Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Some people have reasons to be murdered, but no one has reasons to be raped

Not true.

PerfectStorm - February 10, 2019, 3:35 pm

Murder is worse than rape for sure, if you're murdered you have nothing.

Maskin - February 10, 2019, 3:36 pm

Rape is never acceptable.

Murder is in a few cases acceptable, like a father murdering a rapist that raped his daughter.

Playboy - February 10, 2019, 3:43 pm

I would have to say murder because not only are you sending a life but also mentally scarring his entire family. Both are bad though, if not sickening.

SIM-1349466 - February 10, 2019, 4:50 pm

Personally, I think rape is worse. People want to kill themselves after being raped anyway so, you'd get both. I'd rather be murdered than violated.

Mr.Business - February 10, 2019, 4:52 pm

I'd say if the rape was while she was sober and conscious, it would be worse then a swift murder. On the other hand if the murder was slow and drawn out, i'd say that rape would be the lesser in severity

This is the correct answer!! Right there.

Murder. as rape can sometime be false, and put on.

I would pick rape over murder

but it depends who rapes me

allegation or not the fact still applys as a rape charge can be taken back and withdrawn where as murder can only be declared if proof is valid within the state.

I think you are having a monumental comprehension issue in regards to the purpose of this thread... ?

OP isn't asking about charges/convictions. OP is asking if literally being raped or literally being murdered is worse. Not allegations. Not charges. Not convictions. The actual event.

Correct but OP is asking up what we think is worse and I am adding convictions to it as it would add to the outcome of what someone would take as worse. yes they are both bad but taking all allegations into effect as I said I think rape is for my stated reason.

Trappy - February 11, 2019, 3:36 pm

Rape is emotionally scarring to the victim while murder is final to the victim. I would say rape is worse.

Bluffer - February 11, 2019, 4:03 pm

Life is precious. Murder is worse but it's close.

SeekHelp - February 11, 2019, 4:04 pm

Both rape and murder are flexible words that can be used to describe very different scenarios. In general, I think rape is worse but murder can also graduate to very nasty degree.

Ram - February 12, 2019, 7:39 am

Both cuz the person that got raped is left fked up with permanent issues , while same applies for murder when it comes to family of murdered victim.

canine - February 12, 2019, 7:56 am

You can't recover from murder, can you?

Malikai - February 12, 2019, 7:58 am

They are both shitty, but I would assume murder is worse because you can get raped multiple times and make it through.

Dope - February 12, 2019, 8:20 am

Really depends. Rape is something you'll deal with till you're dead most likely and murder it just happens and that's it. It's worse for the ones around you, not specifically you. So the question should be either what's worse for the people around you or you personally. :)

Lion - February 12, 2019, 8:40 am

Murder.

If you're raped, there will likely be trauma that follows, but you live to see another day. Would you rather be dead or alive? I think I pick alive.

Mercury - February 12, 2019, 8:41 am

Murder directly effects you. Though it isn't your problem anymore. On the other hand, your family and friends would be devastated. Rape also directly effects you, and in most cases only you. Most rape victims don't even come forward out of shame and embarrassment.

I'd rather be murdered. Hell I'd truly rather be the murderer.

Joel - February 12, 2019, 9:44 am

LOL at anyone saying rape.

Inquisitor - February 12, 2019, 10:19 am

Death is absolute, the end of line, so murder. You could get therapy for the rape incident, but not if you're dead.

evander - February 16, 2019, 10:30 am

Nothing is worse than taking a life. Not comparable. Many men are in jail for rape due to a misunderstanding, not because they intended to rape.

You can't kill someone by a misunderstanding. You know you are killing people.
