

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: the pathfinder achievements made me quit the game

smokedowt1 - February 14, 2019, 5:37 pm

the game just isnt worth this much effort. i wouldnt mind having to sink hours into the game thats not the problem these achievements are just ridiculous. its been a really long fucking time since i played so i have to do for 3...THREE fucking expansions and each one is fucking hard as fuck. i was doing the dreanor one and i get confused as fuck i cant even find the people to do the main story quest lines and then after researching it for hours come to find out i need a fucking alliance character at lvl 90 when i have none(and still cant find the person to start the quest)..... just to do one tiny part of the achievement one part i canceled my subscription because the game just isnt worth it anymore aside from that its just not good anymore and its not ever going to be good. i was fine with the game being shit now but after those achievements no way hell. i have to remind myself how bad the game is because i always get interested again and come back to play and then as soon as i come back they have another shitty expansion ruining the game and i have to buy it just to play for 2 months and end up spending like $80 just to play the shittiest game ever for 2 months god damn it how did they fuck up a game that was so good in the first place. literally not even worth the trash everyone threw the game in anymore.

Vince - February 21, 2019, 11:33 am

It's become a big money grab because of Activision basically running Blizzard now. It is one big grindfest.