Thread: Mobile Site "View New Posts" button UX

Greetings,

Before the site changes I used to hit the "view new posts" button in the top left hand corner constantly to see what was new. Now I find myself mainly browsing specific sub-forums when I'm on the mobile site (on iPhone). For quite a while after the site changes I found myself wondering "where did that button go again?". I think more people might use that feature if there was a quick "View New Posts" button in the top-bar instead of the 3 clicks to reach the link in the nested navigation bar. Just a user-experience thought. Thanks.

It's right between Favs and Your Threads

That's how it is on my Pixel 3

Yeah I found it now, I was just saying it would be nice if there was a button in the top bar that loaded the "new posts" page. There's currently a "Quick Thread" button, idk about you but I view the "new posts" page FAR more often than I create a thread.
