Thread: Black Hat Fake Vouches uid=3924584

SORRIE - February 20, 2019, 3:36 pm

User Black Hat pm'd me and some other uses asking for and offering fake vouches. I would recommend staying away from any seller that participates in things like these.

TheChosenOunce - February 20, 2019, 3:38 pm

It's not a violation of any market place rule, however it's extremely unethical and sketchy. Thank you OP for the announcement.

Dotexe - February 20, 2019, 3:38 pm

So sad to see people doing this

Sadly it isn't yeah, would just be too hard to enforce but I just want to make sure people are aware before purchasing his product that all of his vouches are probably fake.

"I'm happy to JUST drop a vouch" then people would think this is legit and buy the product that apparently wasn't reviewed

It was very clear that he wanted me to vouch for his product without seeing it, shady and likely a sign of a bad product

Even if there were a rule in place regarding it, I doubt it would stop those that actively engage in this from continuing to do so.

Yea, and there are 3 or 4 threads in regarding of this matter, no one would take this person serious anyway, thanks for the alert :P

Oh I see let's make two threads regarding this even though I already explained myself in Playboys thread.

I would not of vouched on anything that I didn't believe to be true but you two seemed like genuine people hence why I asked you in the first place. But whatever my product is selling well 4 sales so far and no complaints I even got a bonus for spending extra time helping some guy set his script up because his CLI was having problems with executing python commands.

So before you run my name through the dirt you could have tried speaking with me, I messaged you in good faith, not to deceive people but only to bolster sales to people as a market strategy I'm sorry if you received it negatively but I never expected you to take my message in poor taste.

And if someone could link me to something that says explicitly that asking for a vouch is against the rules or general forum etiquette I would appreciate it because I couldn't find anything in the Help Docs, rules section or through multiples attempts using the search feature.

Maybe asking for a vouch is just a grey area I wasn't aware of I regret asking now and I won't do it again and if you would delete this thread I would appreciate it.

There isn't one fake vouch on any of my threads, I've made a total of 3 sales

Payment recieved last night for helping a person who's PC config was weird

There's proof I have no fake vouches now stfu idiot.

Of course, I'm going to ask you to delete the thread why would anyone want a DWC with their UID especially when the DWC is wrong, you're going to judge me based on a bad decision that I made at 5 in the morning when I've had like 9 hours sleep in the past 4 days because of insomnia, nearly everyone on this forums has "high quality friends" vouching for their "low quality bullshit products", my product works, I've not lied about any of its features or inflated expected results.

Show me one fake vouch on my thread and I will prove you wrong right now, I weren't asking for fake vouches I was asking for genuine vouches and the only fucking reason I asked the two of you was because we exchanged several posts on a few threads that day and I was feeling good vibes, I checked your products before I asked and shit checked out.

Anyway, whatever I'm done.

You're going back and forth with what you're saying. You knew exactly what you were trying to do and you can't convince me otherwise, especially when you say "everyone else is doing it" just makes it more obvious.

I'm not going back and forth with what I'm saying I'm just telling you how it is, I'm getting deal with cautions basically because I asked someone to speak positively about me in my sales thread ? it is what it is but you've already made your decision on me that's pretty clear. Even if what you're saying is true you're trying to get people that don't know you to lie and say that they recommend your services and you, its sketchy and immoral for a buyer to see me saying "yeah this guy is great" when I don't know you.

You posted an irrelevant screenshot of Riyu's deal disputes and called for the thread being closed. How does that work?

You just made yourself look like even more shit by the way you've responded to these community alerts. Acting like a dumbass that doesn't know asking for fake vouches is a shady business practice. And you claiming you were asking them to "speak positively about you" when you were clearly asking for fake vouches. Your bullshit responses have proven you are a shady seller, regardless of whether or not your product works.

IMHO, this thread should be closed. Even though he might or not have meant it in good faith according to his second PM. Fake vouches from high repped users could definitely be very misleading especially for potential buyers. I think he got the CE he asked for. So its up to users to decide whether to buy or not. Sure there are people who still ask for fake vouches, unfortunately for OP he got caught and being scape goated. If you ask me, I'd say he's got it. Can we all now move on?

Fake vouches from high repped users could definitely be very misleading especially for potential buyers. I think he got the CE he asked for. So its up to users to decide whether to buy or not. Sure there are people who still ask for fake vouches, unfortunately for OP he got caught and being scape goated. If you ask me, I'd say he's got it. Can we all now move on?

Nope lol, try to get fake couches and I'll have the thread open as long as he's selling here.

Lets look at the topic that you made the day you joined HF, asking if you could somehow have your old account, 64-Bit, back: <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5852796>

So, what you're saying is you mistakenly told us that you were 64-Bit? 64-Bit, who before the day that you registered hadn't been seen in 30 months, who happened to appear online for the first time in 2.5 years just 10 minutes before you made a post asking to have your old account back, specifically stating that its name was 64-Bit?

3. Let's go to 64-Bit's profile: Link

4. 8 username changes, I wonder what the earliest or most used username is? Lets dig through some early threads until we find a quote: Link

5. Oh look, there's someone quoting 64-Bit on one of their earliest threads and when quoted the name Poppadomus comes up, so 64-Bit's OG HF name was Poppadomus... Link

Alright, so we have Poppadomus. Lets make a connection to our fake girl/liar Black Hat and be done with this....

6. I was told to check out this link, which brings up a profile by the name of Poppadomus on a gaming forum: Link

7. If we look on the left side, we see a birthday for the user Poppadomus, and the birthday is March 22, 1991: <https://i.imgur.com/bUMdNOf.png>

8. So 1991 matches the ages that both Black Hat and 64-Bit give out... Link1 Link2

9. Now March 22.... 3/22... there seems to be something there.... What if we Brittishize this date.... 3/22 -> 03/22 -> 22/03....

10. 22/03.... Something about that number rings a bell... could it be it's because that's the same date you used in your username when signing up to HF again, Katie2203? Link

If you're selling something HQ and legit, its better to search for a user who's expert in the field of the product cuz he can write a proper review. Unless you don't want negative reviews.
