Anyone know how in social media theres this trend where you can follow a person and that person will follow you back?

What if we do that for our CPA sites? What if we all post our sites and we agree to do whatever is asked (click on an ad, give an email, etc) as long the same is done for our sites?

That would be against most CPA networks' policies.

First of all, this is against all CPA network rules, everyone would be banned sooner or later.

If it would work that way, you could simply use bots to do this and get many more leads that lead for lead.

Also, you will get just a few dollars per day if there would be nice amount of people, but if you put some effort in CPA, then you can get much more doing it the legit way and still automated, so no reason at all to do this.

Please do not waste your time! You will not be paid and your account will be ban.
