Changes

Podcast has made the return. Thanks to -Nas, SoulZeh and Thornzzz for stepping up to the plate. Long one, grab a cup or two of coffee and start listening! We also have introduced a Sports section. We're working hard on bringing back all the other sections we currently have. Stay tuned for more changes.

Fueled by Plastic

As I am sure many of you are aware, we have a very large issue with plastic on the planet. This issue is what prompted the research into this breakthrough technique. Researchers with Perdue University have developed a procedure to convert non-reusable plastics into an energy-rich fuel. According to the researchers, the process is not heavily complex in nature "The conversion is achieved using subcritical or supercritical water, which can convert plastic waste into oil, fuels, or gas, depending on the processing conditions. Some impurities in the plastic waste are converted into oil or extracted into the processing water. Both conversion and extraction are achieved in the same process." >>Source

Great White Sharks Hacked

That is right, the genome of the Great White Shark has been decoded. This endeavor required input from Nova Southeastern University's (NSU) Save Our Seas Foundation Shark Research Center and Guy Harvey Research Institute (GHRI), Cornell University College of Veterinary Medicine, and Monterey Bay Aquarium. The decoding of it has revealed just how massive it is, being one a half times the size of the human genome. This also has large medical implications. It was found that the Great White Shark has genetic adaptations to combat cancer. We will all have to keep our eyes peeled for further developments in this story. >>Source

NHL Trade Deadline Recap

The NHL 2019 trade deadline ended with some huge trades that will shakeup the NHL's playoff picture massively. Some of the most notable include the Ottawa Senators blowing up their whole team by dealing three of their star players including forward Matt Duchene who this season has 28 goals and 32 assists in 52 games, and Ryan Dzingel to the Columbus Blue Jackets. The Senators received from Columbus for Duchene forward prospects Vitaly Abramov and Johnathan Davidsson and a 2019 first round pick. Ottawa will also receive Columbus's 2020 first round pick if the pending unrestricted free agent Matt Duchene signs with the team long term in the off-season. Ottawa also shipped off Ryan Dzingel who this season currently has 22 goals and 22 assists for 44 points in 57 games, Ottawa received from the trade Anthony Duclair and two 2nd round picks. Most notably being shipped off from Ottawa is their leader in both goals and assists Mark Stone. Who this season has recorded 28 goals and 34 assists in 59 games. Stone who is a pending free agent who has announced publicly through ESPN that he has verbally agreed to a contract extension with his new team the Vegas Golden Knights. Coming back to Ottawa in this trade is defensive prospect Erik Brannstrom; a 19 year old who was selected by Vegas 15th overall in the 2017 NHL draft. Ottawa will also receive forward Oscar Lindberg and a 2nd round pick which belonged to the Dallas Stars for the 2020 NHL draft.

Other notable trades include Mats Zuccarello, a 31 year old who has spent all of his career till the trade deadline with the New York Rangers and was seen by a lot of the New York fans as a favorite. Zuccarello in the 17-18 season for the Rangers put up 16 goals and 37 assists for 53 points in 80 games. This season Zuccarello has put up 11 goals and 26 assists for 37 points in 46 games. The Rangers received a 2nd round pick in 2019 and a conditional 3rd round pick in 2020. The condition on the pick being that if the Dallas Stars win two playoff series and Zuccarello plays more than 50% of the games the 3rd pick turns into a 2020 1st round pick. Unfortunately for the Dallas Stars during his first game with the Stars Zuccarello who had already recorded 3 points in the game for his team hurt his hand and is now required to have surgery and is out a minimum of a month.

Manny Machado signs with the San Diego Padres

26 year old all-star and third baseman Manny Machado signed a record breaking $300,000,000 contract with the San Diego Padres. This contract is currently the third-largest sports contract in the world. The 26 year old super star recorded a total of 188 hits, 37 home-runs and a batting average of .297 split between the Los Angeles Dodgers and the Baltimore Orioles last season. Machado's contract is 10 years for $30,000,00 a year, the second largest in MLB history behind Giancarlo Stanton's 13 year $325,000,000 contract. With this signing the struggling Padres hope to revitalize their franchise and their chances at being a contender for the title. With this addition of Manny Machado they are already expected win a total of 10 more games in the upcoming MLB season.

Duke Star Zion Williamson Suffers Major Injury

Duke star and current expected first overall pick in the 2019 NBA draft Zion Williamson was injured in a game last Wednesday against rival and opponent North Carolina. In the opening minutes of the game the Duke star was seen to have "exploded out of his shoe" as he was going for an aggressive drive and his left shoe split and his foot fell out of the shoe causing him to go down with a knee injury. Duke's head coach Mike Krzyzanski has expressed to media that he is optimistic of Zion's return and hopes that he can be back soon. Williamson has averaged 21.6 points, 8.8 rebounds, 1.8 blocks and 2.2 steals per game for the current 24-3 Duke squad.

Zion's injury has also spiked discussion on the ongoing debate of lowering the NBA's draft age from 19 to 18 allowing seniors out of High School to be eligible to be drafted in the NBA draft. Since 2003 the NBA has made it mandatory that you must turn 19 before you can go into the NBA draft, allowing colleges then to pick up, up and coming players for their teams and allowing College basketball to thrive with these future stars playing under the banners, if only for one season. The NBA proposed officially lowering the age required to be drafted to 18 last Friday and is awaiting approval from National Basketball Player's Association.

US Technology Firm stops the sales of DNA collection equipment to China

Biotech firm "Thermo Fisher" has recently announced that it will stop providing all equipment to Xinjiang, a province within China where the authorities have launched a statewide campaign to monitor its citizens. By using this DNA, the authorities in China were building a large comprehensive database to penalise citizens who defied the system. People within this province have reportedly been imprisoned in camps according to multiple sources, though many civil rights activists have described the conditions of those defilers who have been sent to the camps similar to those of concentration camps. Thermo Fisher's decision was based upon their ethics code and policies, which were evidently broken by the Chinese government whilst misusing their DNA tests to build this database. Whilst not giving a full statement on the issue, Thermo Fisher has announced: "As the world leader in serving science, we recognize the importance of considering how our products and services are used – or may be used – by our customers." Trump urges internet providers to roll out 5G and "6G" networks

In a recent tweet by Donald Trump, it was stated that he wants the United States to push for 5G and a not yet existent "6G" as soon as possible. He has stated that "American Companies must step up their efforts, or get left behind", whether this statement will have an effect on any internet provider pushing the launch of 5G networks nationwide is questionable. Some American internet providers such as Verizon has already started offering 5G home internet in a few cities, yet it isn't the 5G global standard, rather Verizon's own technology. Trump complained that "There is no reason that we should be lagging behind", perhaps in comparison to few countries such as South Korea which have launched a commercial 5G network in this past year in Seoul and 6 other major cities; along with Deutsche Telecom launching 5G in Poland in Dec 2018 with the help of Huawei Equipment.

Overwatch Announces It's Newest Hero: Baptiste

Overwatch, a first-person shooter released in summer of 2016 is adding another hero to its diverse roster. The hero that it's adding is the "Combat Medic" as described by Overwatch: Baptiste. As Overwatch describes in their information published, Baptiste has "the best shot of a Medic". Baptiste is supposed to be a more combat oriented support character opposed to the other support characters such as Mercy and Ana. One of the most interesting aspects of this announcement is how this hero is going to affect the ongoing Overwatch League or 'OWL'. The Overwatch League is Overwatch's competitive E-Sport scene where 20 teams battle it out on a weekly basis for the chance to make the Overwatch League playoffs and $1,000,000 for the first place title. Many are excited for the release of Baptiste, but currently there is no official release date for competitive.

NVIDIA Launches GTX 1660 TI Graphic Card

On February 22nd NVIDIA officially launched their GTX 1660 at the price of $279 USD. This card was released to be a middle ground to their also recently released cards the RTX 2080, RTX 2070 and RTX 2060. Unlike the previously mentioned cards the 1660 unfortunately does not have ray tracing or DLSS but, this card does come with good FPS rates. A bookmark by gsmarena.com shows that on 1080p high quality settings the 1660 is averaging 103-123 frames per a second on the game Apex Legends. This outranks other cards such as the GTX 1060, GTX 1070 and falling just short of the bookmarks of the 1070ti. It's recommended for players who wish to pick-up a good graphics card at a good price.

TOPIC: Did you watch the Superbowl? Who were you rooting for?

"Patriots baby! New England born and bred; it's treason for me to root for any other team!"

"Yes, I watched the superbowl. I was not a huge fan of either team however everybody that I was watching the game with was rooting for the Patriots so I decided to go for the Rams."

"My favorite member is definitely Vitani. He is always willing to help and has been a nice person to chat with during every interaction I have had with him. My least favorite member is CryptoGeek(BANNED)."

TOPIC: If you were given a Hack Forums group for free, what would you do with it?

"We've been missing a well-run, engaged group that focuses on various facets of programming and design. I'd build a group around that, bringing together developers and designers, to further skillsets and contribute to the community."

~Disease

"I think it would be nice to open a group up to focus on quality over quantity, helping forum members whenever possible, and creating a relaxed and friendly environment where group members can help each other in a multitude of topics. I'm not necessarily set on any one topic, in fact I think it would be good to have a few active members from different sections around the forum. I like ideas from different groups that I am apart of. For example, the activity requirements from Sociopaths, the assignments from Samaritans(can be as simple as wishing somebody happy holidays or more complex like making a tutorial in your respective section), the friendly banter and environment of wolfpack, the dedication to recognizing members who do something good from Infamous. I'd like to incorporate a lot of specific ideas that I think make each group excel."

Stay tuned for more changes."

sorry, but it what it is. I fucking work on a podcast with 2 other people for 3 months to make it perfect and then randomly 3 other people make one.

i'm done.I contacted Hydra and requested to make the podcast. I don't know if you messaged Hydra, but I personally messaged Hydra and requested to make the podcast. Regardless, I would love to have you guys on the podcast and I'd also love for you guys to post your podcast too and I would personally listen to it.

Also, the HFNT podcast has gone all the way back to 2014 and 2015. Just different people, this wasn't a new idea nor a new concept the news lol.

I would prefer to listen to a British accent over American any day. Send me a message about this. I would like to know more.
