The text is far too long to paste here (17,000 characters haha). If a staff member could copy paste it here that would be sweet.

None of this information is copy pasted from other places, all of this was written by me.

If any of this information helps you please leave a reply on the thread to keep it active, this took a long time to write.

Wow! Really great knowledge in that Pastebin. Great content - that paste is probably one of the greatest things I've read on HF.

Very spot on & no bullshit.

I keep dm'ing people you are following on swavymeme, and ask for prices and everyone wants like 100$ plus with accounts gaining like 10-40k likes.

Is that even worth it? How much $ should one pay for each 1k like their account gets on average?

My general price range is around $20 for an account getting 80-100k likes, which is like an offensive lowball but I don't settle for a higher price than what I want to pay. If someone doesn't like my offers I just move to the next person. If you don't have the patience to go through thousands of people then you could of course just pay their rates.

Always negotiate though, some people may say they want $100 for a 12hr promo but you could likely get them way under that.

It's super easy to convince people to give you what you want, all just depends how you act and the way you word your sentences. I always go for the solid "convince the person their page is dead" and they'll go super low, not a nice thing to do but yeaaaa.
